Truman Blasts Administration For "Robbery"

Fiscal Policies Target Of Salvo

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Truman accused the Republican administration Monday night of robbing ordinary citizens "to pay off political obligations to the gigantic financiers."

Truman, still peppery at 73, sounded like the give-em-hell candidate he was in 1948 in a speech prepared for the National Conference of Democratic Women.

He made the stealing charge in a discussion of how the Eisenhower administration has handled the public debt and money matters in general.

He said: "During the past few years the Treasury has deliberately jacked up interest on the government's financing and refinancing all along the line, Ordinary Citizen 'Robbed'."

"But this is not all. Generally speaking, it has jacked up interest rates most on the types of obligations bought or sold by great financial institutions or wealthy individuals, and raised interest rates least on the obligations bought or held by average American families — for example, certain types of savings bonds."

"Moreover, the Treasury has juggled around its short-term and long-term issues, and its types of issues, so as to rob the ordinary citizen to pay off political obligations to the gigantic financiers."

The conference attracted 2,000 women party workers from all over the country, and the Democrats wheeled out their biggest guns.

Adlai E. Stevenson, Gov. Averell Harriman of New York and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt fired off salvos at a luncheon.

Mrs. Roosevelt speaks

In what the gathering took as a massive understatement, Mrs. Roosevelt remarked: "Sometimes I think the men in charge of our administration are not as understanding of the world in which we are living as they should be."

Stevenson quipped his way through a brief talk, to the delight of his listeners. But he was serious, too. The man the Democrats nominated twice for president against Eisenhower told the Democratic women that women believe in humanity, social justice, education, an expanding economy and hope in the future.

Harriman, who challenged Stevenson for the party's presidential nomination in 1956, laid it on the GOP with a heavy cudgel. He said the recession "has deepened because of the inaction and ineptness of this administration."

The conference honored the 25th anniversary of the New Deal founded by Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Homemade Sub Proves Success

CORSICANA, Tex. (AP) — Turtle II, a homemade submarine with a hand-cranked screw for movement, has made four public dives without mishap.

Ray Bass, city plumbing inspector, and Pete Hartgraves, a welding shop operator, built the 18-foot craft as a hobby.

Several hundred people gathered at Lake Halbert Sunday to watch the proceedings.

The sub was created from a discarded water tank. About 3,000 pounds of concrete were poured into the bottom to give it stability. It has a water-tight hatch.

N.Y. Street Ash Trays

NEW YORK (AP) — The Sanitation Department said Monday it will distribute public ash trays around New York City to try to cut down on litter in the streets.

The trays, to be mounted on a parking meter-type base, are cone-shaped with sand in the bottom.

Resolution Faced Sure U.N. Defeat

Attempt To Brand SAC Flights Peace Menace Collapses

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union Monday night withdrew its demand that the United States be asked to end Arctic flights of the U.S. Strategic Air Command on the grounds they could trigger an atomic war.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev took the action in the U.N. Security Council, where a Soviet resolution condemning the United States for such flights faced certain defeat.

Sobolev said he was withdrawing his resolution because U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, the Council president, had steam-rolled the Council toward a vote.

Lodge replied that "The simple fact was that the Soviet Union did not have enough votes to push its proposal through."

Six Hours Of Debate

The surprise Soviet move came after six hours of debate.

Eight of the Council's 11 members had lined up in support of the United States.

During the debate Lodge vigorously rejected Soviet charges that the flights by U.S. planes carrying hydrogen bombs could accidentally set off atomic war. He declared they will be continued to enable the free world to meet the threat of Soviet aggression.

Sobolev sought unsuccessfully to delay the vote until Tuesday.

Only Sweden remained silent in the Council. Canada, Nationalist China, France, Britain, Japan, Colombia, Iraq, and Panama all supported the United States.

Soviet Motives Questioned

Most of the delegates questioned the motives of the Soviet Union in bringing up the issue when the big powers are negotiating for a summit conference.

The Soviet complaint was voiced for the first time in Moscow last Friday, and asked for urgent consideration by the Council.

In his final rebuttal Sobolev declared that a summit conference is the only way to settle the East-West disarmament deadlock. He added: "And this way has so far not come about, owing to the obstinate resistance of the United Kingdom, France and the United States."

Lodge told Sobolev that "to caluminate the United States as you are doing today is not the action of someone who wants a summit conference, not the action of someone who wants peace."

Truman Admits Mistake, Setting Record Straight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Truman set the record straight Monday on his eight-year-old interview with Arthur Krock of the New York Times.

He acknowledged that in the interview he had told Krock an unemployment figure of three to five million persons was supportable in the U.S. economy.

When the interview was recalled to him by Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) before the House Banking Committee last Monday, Truman had asserted "that exclusive interview did not happen. That came out of the air."

Monday Truman blamed his mistake on a memory lapse. He apologized to Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the Banking Committee.

Supreme Court Curbs Favored By Senate Unit

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two controversial proposals to curb the powers of the Supreme Court were approved 9-6 today by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

A third proposal, designed to curtail the Supreme Court's ruling that government workers may be fired as security risks only from sensitive jobs, was defeated 9-5.

Chairman Eastland (D-Miss) announced the committee had okayed legislation which would strip the high court of power to act on appeals from cases involving the admission of lawyers to practice in state courts.

He said it also had approved a proposal by Sen. Butler (R-Md) to block appeals to the Supreme Court or any other federal court by witnesses challenging the pertinency of questions asked them by congressional investigating committees.

The Judiciary Committee is working on a bill by Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) to strip the Supreme Court of authority to review lower court decisions in five categories of cases.

One of these categories covers the admission of lawyers to practice in state courts, and another covers security dismissals.

The other categories are state antitrust laws, regulations by school boards and similar bodies on subversive activities by teachers, and cases arising from congressional probes.

Butler's limitation proposal was offered as an amendment to the Jenner bill. It would give the congressional committee engaged in any investigation the last word on whether a question is pertinent. This would be important in contempt proceedings.

Anti-Slump Measure

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed Monday a bill authorizing a speedup in government purchase of 250 million dollars worth of supplies.

Khrushchev Boasts Reds "Will Beat Capitalists"

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev told American Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Monday night the Communists will re-educate the capitalists of the world, "when we win."

In a freewheeling 15-minute speech to diplomats at a Polish Embassy reception marking the 13th anniversary of the signing of a friendship agreement between Poland and the Soviet Union, Khrushchev said:

"I could close my eyes and if you are a socialist ambassador, I know your country is a peaceful country. There are other ambassadors here who would like to spit on communism. But don't let's see who can spit furthest, like camels in a cage. Instead, let's compete. We have to maintain minimum sanitary conditions."

"We will beat the capitalists, but that does not mean killing anybody."

He praised the Chinese people for what he called re-educating the capitalist element there. Then he pointed to Thompson and said: "When we win in this competition, we will also re-educate you. We Bolsheviks are a ravenous people. What we achieved in the past is very little. We want more and more."

Khrushchev spoke in Russian. Thompson, who has a working knowledge of the language, smiled and looked toward the floor.

Khrushchev said there has been an increase in Soviet production of butter, milk, and meat, and added:

"Look out, Mr. Thompson, we are stepping on your tail."

Victim's Body Removed From Plane Wreckage

plane, bound from Los Angeles to New York, with a jet trainer sent it spinning to a violent end on the desert yesterday. The two men aboard the jet also were killed. (AP Photofax)

Yugo Leaders To Meet Soviet Rebuff Headon

LIUBLJANA, Yugoslavia (AP) — The leaders of Yugoslavia's Communist party were reported determined Monday night to come to grips with a new Soviet rebuff. Well informed circles said the Yugoslavs have decided neither to retreat nor to avoid the issues.

These sources said the party of President Tito, a veteran of struggles with the Kremlin, had been angered by a Soviet boycott of the Yugoslav Party Congress opening here Tuesday. The Communist parties of most other European countries followed the Soviet example.

Tito and his top lieutenants huddled Monday, and informants said they had decided some answers must be given to the Soviet boycott during the six-day congress. But there was no announced decision whether Tito himself would give the answer in his opening statement Tuesday or whether someone else would do the job later.

A clue to what the answer might be appeared to rest in the draft program to be debated at the Congress. The program recalls the 1948 rupture between Tito and the Stalinist Soviet regime, saying:

"The conflict—in consequence of the resistance of the Communist party of Yugoslavia to Stalin's policies—was not the expression of any desire on our part to retreat into isolation or sectarian seclusion but was the expression of resistance to a faulty policy in practice which, had it asserted itself, would have inflicted tremendous harm to the development of socialism."

Sources said the Yugoslav Communists will again resist what they consider erroneous ideas but at the same time maintain ties with other Communist countries.

A dispute over this draft program brought about the current Soviet boycott. The original draft, published in March, criticized all military blocs. Last week the Yugoslavs edited out several portions considered objectionable to the Russians and changed the reference to military blocs to justify the Soviet-sponsored Warsaw pact.

The Russians called a boycott of the Congress anyway.

British Urge Soviets Join A-Test Study

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan urged Soviet Premier Khrushchev Monday night to join at once in a study of technical arrangements needed to control any world pact for suspending nuclear weapon tests.

Macmillan was replying to a letter in which the new Soviet premier 17 days ago had appealed to Britain to follow the Soviet example in voluntarily banning atomic and H-bomb tests.

Khrushchev addressed a similar demand to the United States and got what amounted to a quick turnaround. The British leader made no direct reply to Khrushchev's suggestion.

Harriman Assails Ike "Indifference" Toward Recession

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Averell Harriman of New York accused the Eisenhower administration Monday of taking a do-nothing, indifferent attitude toward the recession.

The Democratic governor made the charge in a speech to a national conference of Democratic women while these other things were happening on the economic front:

1. Chairman Spence (D-Ky) of the House Banking Committee predicted that Congress will pass a bill to lend states and cities up to two billion dollars for local public works. The Senate has passed such a bill, limited to one billion.

2. Sen. Mansfield (D-Mont) offered a bill to increase individual exemptions on income taxes from $600 to $800 and to repeal federal

Bidault Aims For Assembly Vote Thursday

PARIS (AP) — Georges Bidault, who wants France to get tougher in Algeria, said Monday night he hopes to go before the National Assembly Thursday to seek confirmation as premier of France's 25th postwar Cabinet. But he faces the problem of lining up support in his own party.

Bidault talked in his hotel room Monday with several individual politicians but no party delegations. His own party, the Catholic Popular Republican Movement—MRP—has scheduled a meeting for Tuesday to decide its course.

Most of the MRP opposes Bidault because of his tough views on how France should handle the rebellion in Algeria. But Bidault seems to hold favor — because of these views — with the conservative independents, the De Gaulle Social Republicans, the extreme right-wing Poujadists, and some radical splinter groups. These groups have about 175 votes in the 595-seat Assembly.

If Bidault fails to win the premiership it would probably mean there is no majority for a government of the right. President Rene Coty then would probably have to seek his next candidate from the center or slightly to the left.

U.S. Expels Czech Commercial Attache

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Monday expelled Communist Czechoslovakia's commercial attache here, Dr. Roman Skokan. The State Department move apparently was in retaliation for Czechoslovakia's ousting of an American diplomat in Prague last Friday.

Joseph R. Jacyno, second secretary of the American Embassy there, was ordered to leave Czechoslovakia. He was charged with espionage activity. Czech police agents picked him up while he was visiting a friend.

Today the State Department sent a terse note to the Czech embassy, saying only that the presence of Skokan, "is no longer acceptable to the government of the United States."

Five Russian, Four U.S. Elbe Vets Reunited

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joseph Polowsky saw his dream come true Monday. Four Americans and five Russians who were with the U.S. and Soviet forces that linked up at the Elbe River in Germany 13 years ago this week met again.

There was hugging and backslapping and handshaking during the reunion at National Airport.

Polowsky, 40, a Chicago bus driver, kept blinking in the sunlight and saying what a great day it was. The Russians, none of whom speak English, kept nodding and smiling.

The Russians' visit is in return for one Polowsky and his fellow veterans made to Moscow.

Polowsky has been trying to arrange a Washington reunion ever since the war. He quit the University of Chicago and a career in biology to devote more time to it.

"We were friends when we met at the Elbe and we are friends now," Polowsky said. "We must try to find some means among ourselves of breaking this impassable barrier between our two countries."

Alexei P. Maresyev, possibly the Soviets' most beloved hero of World War II, responded in Russian: "If our visit here, like your visit to us, should help improve understanding between the American and Soviet people, then we did not come all this distance for nothing."

Maresyev, a handsome black-haired man, walks on artificial legs. He lost his legs in an air crash.

Polowsky's fellow veterans were William Herr, Staten Island, N.Y., an unemployed salesman; Pete Sitnik, Alexandria, Va., and Jack Bryan, Palatka, Fla., administrative assistant to Rep. Matthews (D-Fla.).

The Soviet Embassy was out in force, but no State Department representatives were on hand.

Defense Industry Experts Among Victims Of Crash

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Business leaders, key defense industry personnel and a top Los Angeles County educator were among the 47 persons killed Monday in the crash of a United Air Lines plane near Las Vegas.

Robert Hight, 36, a specialist in administration and finance, was treasurer of the Ramo-Woodbridge Corp., in Inglewood, Calif., firm which coordinates the Air Force ballistic missile program. He leaves his wife and two children.

William H. Torrans, 43, was a math specialist in Ramo-Woodbridge's space technology laboratory. He was working on intercontinental missiles. He leaves a son, 18, and a daughter, 14.

John B. Emanuel, 40, was a cost forecasting expert at Douglas Aircraft Corp. He was on his way to Washington to report directly to the Pentagon on a secret project. His wife, and a son and daughter survive.

Huge Luxury Plane Plunges In Flames Near Las Vegas

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — An east-bound airliner carried 47 persons on a screaming, four-mile death dive Monday after colliding with an Air Force jet trainer high above the Nevada desert.

The big United Air Lines four-engine DC7 and a supersonic F100F from nearby Nellis Air Force Base came together in a flashing explosion 21,000 feet in the air. The two men aboard the jet rode it to their deaths.

A number of businessmen and key defense industry figures were aboard the airliner, en route to Washington and New York.

Altogether, there were 35 civilian passengers, 5 crew members and 7 military personnel.

The Air Force said its plane went aloft on an instrument training flight during which a blindfolded student pilot operates the ship in response to radio signals beamed from the ground. An instructor in a forward uncovered cockpit was also in the dual control fighter-bomber.

Just before the collision the jet was given instructions to let down from 28,000 feet to 16,000 feet on instruments.

Pilot's Last Words

A frantic radio call from the stricken airliner was monitored moments after the collision. United Air Lines said the pilot's last words were:

"United Air Lines 736 (the flight number). Mayday (the aircraft distress call). Midair collision over Las Vegas, 736."

That was at 8:30 a.m. after that, there was no more.

The jet was following normal procedures for such a flight, an Air Force spokesman said, and had not reported any engine trouble or flying difficulty before the collision.

Thousands in this gambling resort town saw the fiery plunge of the huge silver transport.

"A huge puff of white smoke came from the plane and it started spinning slowly," said a Las Vegas newspaper photographer, Dennis Schieck. "Then bright orange flames shot out of the wing. It was a spectacular sight."

Engines Wide Open

Another witness, Jeff McColl Sr., said the plane went into a steep dive after its staggering run.

"It came down with all four engines screaming wide open," he said, "and as it fell the flames crept back from the wing to the fuselage."

The dying plane disappeared behind a low ridge 10 miles southwest of Las Vegas. Moments later another explosion was heard and a black plume of smoke rose in the cloudless sky. The fighter-bomber crashed eight miles from the transport.

Bright bits of wreckage floated down several minutes and the path of the falling airliner over the desert wasteland was marked by tinsel-bright bits of debris.

It hit the ground with tremendous force and burned fiercely. The largest single piece of the plane found was a 20-foot section of the fuselage. Three of the four engines were found a mile from the main crash site.

The bodies of nearly all the victims were badly burned and mangled.

Alleged Soviet Agent Seized

BOSTON (AP) — A U.S. commissioner held Mark Zborowski, 50, a short, balding, Russian-born Harvard researcher, in $20,000 bail Monday on perjury charges linked with the Jack Soble espionage ring.

FBI agents took Zborowski into custody at his suburban Brookline home a few hours earlier on a New York indictment. They said it was the result of "clandestine activities" by Zborowski with Vasili Zubilin, formerly secretary of the Soviet Embassy who was mentioned in charges against Soble.

The one-count indictment, opened Monday in New York, said Zborowski had committed perjury by denying before a federal grand jury Feb. 20, 1957, that he had ever met Soble.

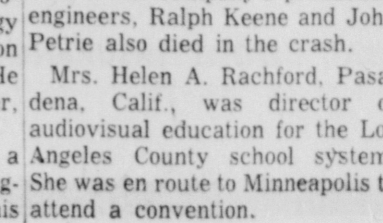

U.S. Atty. Paul W. Williams said in New York that Zborowski had had more than 50 meetings with Soble between 1944 and 1947 in this country and had been a Soviet agent since early in the 1930's.

Soble, his wife, Myra, and Jacob Albam were arrested by the FBI in New York in January, 1957, on charges of conspiracy to commit espionage as members of a Soviet espionage ring. All pleaded guilty. Soble was sentenced to 7 years and the others 5½ years.

Ike's Defense Plan Launched In Senate

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower's defense reorganization plan was launched in the Senate Monday with a friendly shove from both sides of the aisle.

Four Republicans and two Democrats urged that serious consideration be given the President's proposals to streamline the Defense Department and place more power in the hands of the secretary of defense.

But strong forces in both branches of Congress are lining up against any attempt to curtail the separate authorities of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

Sen. Johnson (D-Tex.), the Senate majority leader, said he expects Senate hearings on the legislation will be delayed while the House wrestles with the problem. He added that he hopes Congress will eventually act on some form of reorganization.

Secretary of Defense McElroy predicted after a White House conference Monday the essential features of the administration's plan will have enough general public support to assure approval by Congress.

McElroy and the President discussed plans for McElroy's testimony before the House Armed Services Committee Tuesday in support of the program.

McElroy was told by a newsman that a member of Congress had quoted Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), committee chairman, as saying he plans to make mincemeat of McElroy.

"I'd make a fairly substantial amount of mincemeat and I don't think it'd be very tasty," McElroy, 6 feet 4, replied with a hearty laugh.

Vinson has sharply criticized the reorganization plan.

The President's bill was introduced in the Senate by Sen. Saltonstall of Massachusetts, senior Republican on the Armed Services Committee, who said he was in sympathy with the objectives.

Sens. Cooper (R-Ky.) and Thye (R-Minn.) promptly joined him as cosponsors.

Man Who Sent Wife Body Of Daughter, 6, Attempts Suicide

ROSARIO, Argentina — A man accused of sending his wife the body of their murdered younger daughter leaped from a hotel window Monday with their older daughter in his arms.

Eight-year-old Carmen Beatriz Rodriguez was saved from death when she fell on a hotel awning. Her father, Ernesto Raul Rodriguez, fell to the pavement below and was injured critically. He was not expected to survive.

Rodriguez went through the window with his daughter when police surprised him in his hotel room. He had been sought since Sunday, when his wife, Marta Rodriguez, opened a traveling bag delivered to her Buenos Aires home by special messenger. Inside she found the body of her 6-year-old daughter, Martita Dora, who had been strangled.

With the body were children's clothes, flowers, and a note bearing Rodriguez's name which said: "Next week I will send you, in the same way, your other daughter."

Smoking Abled Blamed For Death Of Brothers

ANNAPOLIS — The Anne Arundel County Fire Prevention Bureau Monday blamed smoking in bed for the suffocation death of two elderly brothers who lived in a small house near Alpine Beach in the Pasadena section.

Chief Inspector Henry Blasmeier said a lighted pipe found near a wool shirt by one of the beds apparently started the fire.

The bodies of James Cherry, 73, and Henry Cherry, 66, were found Monday morning by Pleasant Mormon, a Negro who customarily came by to wake them up.

Officials Study D.C.-Baltimore Highway Route

BALTIMORE — The State Roads Commission indicated Monday the next big highway between Washington and Baltimore may be built through upper Prince Georges County, near the Montgomery line.

It said present studies show that is preferable to another suggested route which would run from the eastern edge of Washington and along the old Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis Railway right-of-way.

The discussion of where to locate the next dual-lane highway between the cities came at a meeting of State Roads Commission officials with several spokesmen from Prince Georges.

The talks were exploratory and intended to lay out the merits or shortcomings of the possible routes. No action was taken.

Meeting with SRC officials were representatives of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Prince Georges County Commissioners and two members of the House of Delegates from the county.

Herbert W. Wells, chairman of the park and planning commission, led the Prince Georges spokesmen who favored the more centrally located highway.

That would carry approximately along Maryland 704 to the W. & A. right-of-way and proceed to the area of Friendship International Airport. There it would be diverted to join other big highways like U.S. 301 or the Baltimore-Washington Expressway.

Wells said lower Prince Georges County is destined to grow by leaps and bounds in the future.

Reddick "Forgery" Trial Under Way

BALTIMORE — Dr. Robert H. Reddick went on trial Monday for "forgery and counterfeiting" of certificates to practice medicine. The trial before Judge Anselm Sodaro is expected to last most of the week.

One of the witnesses called by the state is Joseph Biscardi of New York who has been held in protective custody since last week.

The indictments against Dr. Reddick name Biscardi as the person receiving a medical certificate issued improperly over the name of Dr. Reddick as secretary of the Homeopathic Society of Maryland licensing board.

The attorney general had a court order stop Dr. Reddick from holding examinations and issuing licenses two years ago. It was the beginning of a string of court suits in which Dr. Reddick has been involved and pending.

Heir To Monaco's Throne Baptized

MONTE CARLO, Monaco — The 37-day-old heir to the throne of Monaco was baptized Sunday—Albert Alexander Louis Pierre. This tiny nation pulled out all the stops to celebrate.

Flags of Monaco, France and the United States fluttered in dazzling sunshine from every corner of the half-square-mile domain baby Prince Albert is destined some day to rule. The U.S. flags were there in honor of Albert's mother, American actress Grace Kelly.

Two Men Hold Up Socialite, Take $108,000 In Gems

CHICAGO — Police said two men held up Mrs. Ethel Haffa, wife of millionaire industrialist Titus Haffa, and made off Monday with an estimated $108,000 in jewelry that she was wearing.

Police quoted Mrs. Haffa as saying the robbery occurred as she entered the lobby of her swank Lake Shore Drive apartment building.

After the holdup, Mrs. Haffa said the men ordered her into an elevator. She went up one floor and then descended to the lobby, but the men were gone. One of the men was armed with a revolver, she said.

'Copter Rescues Boy From Isle

WASHINGTON — A freckle-faced boy, too frightened to accept rescue by helicopter Sunday night, was pulled safely by the same craft from a small island in the rushing waters of the Potomac River early Monday.

Roderick Henderson Jr., 14, of nearby Arlington, Va., was none the worse for his 15 hours on the small, rocky island and enjoyed his ride in the rescue craft.

Roderick swam to the island after his canoe upset. The island is about 300 yards above the Great Falls of the Potomac, where two swimmers drowned last year.

Chief Donald Marshall of the Cabin John Fire Department was lowered Sunday night, a rope around his waist, over a dam to an island near the one on which the boy was stranded. From there, Marshall swam 50 feet through the churning water, 8 feet deep, to the boy's refuge. He was swept about 300 feet downstream before he reached the boy.

When a helicopter arrived a short time later, Marshall was pulled aboard in a rope sling.

The sling was lowered again but the boy refused to get into it. After the successful rescue at 6 a.m., the weary fire chief said: "Yes, it was the daylight that made the difference. At 11 p.m. last night I was leery myself."

Baltimore Transit Co. Asks Fare Increase

BALTIMORE — The Baltimore Transit Co. asked Monday for its sixth fare increase since 1948.

The burden of the proposed changes submitted to the Public Service Commission would fall on workers using trolleys or buses before 10 a.m. and after 3 p.m. Monday through Friday.

They would pay 25 cents a ride. Passengers between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. would continue to pay the current 20 cents. The 25-cent fare would apply to everyone on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays.

The BTC also proposed to raise the fare for children from 10 to 15 cents and on its expresses from 25 to 30 cents before 10 a.m. and after 3 p.m.

Tokens would be available at 4 for 90 cents.

The Baltimore trolley fare was 10 cents 10 years ago.

Boat Sinks, 13 Lost

BUENAVENTURA, Colombia — A motor boat sank Monday with 13 persons off Gorgona Island in the Pacific and all were believed lost. The boat was loaded with passengers taken off the ship Ciudad Quibdo, which had run aground.

Action To Keep Patuxent River Clean Is Urged

ANNAPOLIS — The Board of Natural Resources was told Monday that Southern Maryland's Patuxent River stands to become "another Potomac" from a pollution standpoint unless vigorous steps are taken to prevent it.

Maurice T. Lusby Jr., board member from Prince Frederick, expressed concern that a new housing development planned for the former William Woodward estate (Bel Air) in Prince Georges County and a proposed Potomac Edison power plant at Benedict will add materially to the river's pollution.

"The people of Calvert County are very concerned about this," he told the board at its regular monthly meeting. "We don't want the Patuxent to become another Potomac River."

The Potomac has become notorious for its pollution content, particularly in the Washington, D. C. area.

Lusby asked the board to take a public stand urging vigorous action before the river can become polluted by new developments and industries.

Should Teachers Hold Public Office?

ANNAPOLIS — Should a Maryland school teacher be allowed to hold public office and continue teaching?

Anne Arundel County Republican candidates for the Legislature contend he should, despite a ruling from the state superintendent of schools to the contrary. They're asking 1,400 county teachers and P-TA officials for their views on the matter in letters presently being mailed out.

William B. Prendergast, candidate for Republican nomination to the State Senate and head of the ticket, released a copy of the letter Monday.

The question was raised by J. F. Carlton, vocational agriculture teacher at Southern High School, and candidate for Republican nomination to the House of Delegates in Anne Arundel County.

Carlton asked the board of education for permission to run for office and continue teaching if elected. He said a substitute could be hired during legislative session.

The question was passed along to Dr. Thomas G. Pullen, State superintendent of schools, who ruled that Carlton was entitled to seek office but should resign if elected. Dr. Pullen held that because the state helps pay teacher salaries, pays all their retirement costs except the teacher's share, and issues certificates to them, they are state employees. He said the state constitution bars a member of the Legislature from holding state office.

Prendergast and other fellow candidates of Carlton contend he is a county employee, hired by the county and paid by the county even though the state contributes funds for school operations.

"The federal government also contributes to Anne Arundel County school operations," Prendergast said. "Does this make county teachers federal employees?"

The letter asking teachers and P-TA officials for their views says:

"We see no valid reason why a teacher should be denied the right to hold public office when he can do so without neglecting his teaching duties. We see no good reason why the county or the state should be deprived of the talents which a teacher can bring to the performance of the duties of public office. If the lawyer or the automobile dealer or the slot machine repairman can be a legislator, why not the teacher?"

Girl Scouts Plan Training For Leaders

A weekend of leadership training at the Cumberland Girl Scout camp near Flintstone has been planned for May 2-3, according to Olive M. Hurlburt, Girl Scout executive.

Mrs. Z. F. Zimowski is chairman. The group will leave the Girl Scout House here at 1 p. m. May 2 and conclude the program at the camp at 8 p. m. May 3.

At a recent leaders' planning meeting, it was decided to make the first evening's program in the form of a dramatics workshop with Mrs. Leonard Schwab in charge.

Nature hikes and other projects will be carried out in the afternoons under supervision of Mrs. Aden Everstine. Camp craft and different types of outdoor cooking will feature the program on Saturday morning, May 3, directed by Mrs. Alton Fortney.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Edward Milbrada before April 30.

for every 30 students in a school, and the faculty total includes such non-teaching personnel as a principal and librarian.

It was generally agreed that teachers can do a more efficient job with smaller classes, and extra instructors for special fields.

The necessity for professional ethics in the school and community was stressed in the ethics workshop. In regards to the participation by teachers in politics, it was felt that such action would be ethical as long as it was non-partisan in the classroom.

Mayor Hails Optimistic Plant Report

Mayor Roy W. Eves said yesterday an optimistic economic report by local and area industries should encourage those who tend to be discouraged and pessimistic about the current national recession.

The Mayor referred to an article in the Sunday Times which cited the optimistic outlook and continued good business here despite the decline on a national scale.

Eves said accordingly that Cumberland is better off than the national average and commended the article.

While he said he recognized this is not helpful to the man out of work at present, he concluded that citizens should feel optimistic because the city and area are better off than the rest of the nation.

On another matter, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan hailed the Civil Aeronautics Board decision under which Allegheny Airlines will continue service here. He said he knew the service is limited but "We're still glad to have it."

And Finance Commissioner John J. Long said the CAB ruling speaks well for the fight which the city staged through its attorney, Thomas B. Finan. He said the air service is a help to the city both from the promotion and economic standpoint.

On still another matter, Keegan asked for a report on the status of the third low-rent housing project on Oldtown Road. He said the old houses to be removed have been standing idle for some time.

Mayor Eves said that after plans had been completed, it was found that part of the property had been included in SRC plans for the Expressway.

As a result, the plans have had to be changed and properties interchanged by the two groups. This has taken time, he said, adding that a definite plan has been whipped into shape now.

Lakes Overflow

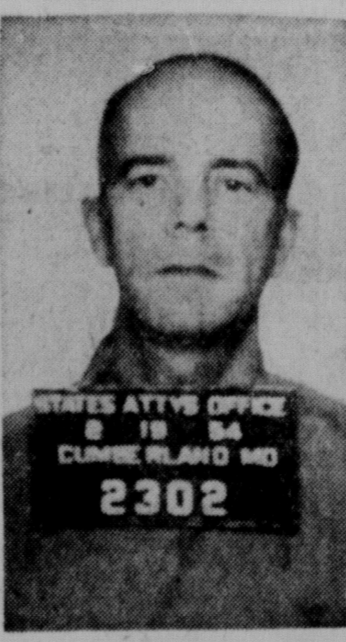

The water level at Lake Gordon is one inch above the crest of the spillway and two inches above at Lake Koon. C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company, reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday. Consumption for the week ending yesterday was 80,250,000 gallons compared to 82,870,000 the same period a year ago.

Thailand Surgeon Sees Annual Children's Clinic

Dr. Charu Sukhabote of Thailand, who has been studying the constructive surgery while doing post graduate work in this country, was an interested observer at the annual clinic held here Saturday by Dr. Edward Kitowski, noted Baltimore plastic surgeon.

Dr. Sukhabote is completing his second year of work with Dr. Kitowski at Children Hospital and Kernans Hospital in Baltimore, and will leave later this year for his native land where he intends to practice such surgery.

There were 111 patients examined at the clinic Saturday, which was sponsored by the Maryland Crippled Children's League. Of the number examined, 30 were recommended for surgery, according to Miss Henrietta Lippold, executive secretary of the

He faces the death penalty. His criminal career began in 1933 in Cumberland and ranged through burglary, larceny and sex offenses.

City To Deed Armory Land

Mayor Roy W. Eves was authorized by the Mayor and Council yesterday to accept a deed from the Board of Allegany County Commissioners for 18 lots in the Cumberland Development Company's Ridgedale Addition.

In turn, the Mayor was authorized to deed certain lots to the Military Department of Maryland in connection with the proposed construction of a new National Guard Armory on the site.

Park Concession Bid Awarded

The bid of Joseph Jolley to operate the concession and casino at Constitution Park was accepted yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

Jolley had offered $650 a year for three years for the contract which was $50 higher than the other bid submitted last week.

Laborers Appointed By Rec Department

Three laborers for the Recreation Department were approved by the Mayor and Council yesterday.

They are Paul E. Billard, Kenneth Messman and Lawson A. Wolfe. All will receive $1.30 an hour.

17 Mt. Savage Students Enter Poetry Contest

MT. SAVAGE — Seventeen students of Mt. Savage High School have had their creative writings submitted by the English department to the twentieth annual high school poetry contest sponsored by the National High School Poetry Association.

Last year 25 poems of Mt. Savage students were published in either the fall or spring section of the organization's anthology, "Young America Sings." This year no poems were submitted for the fall contest.

The recognition which students gain from having their poems included in the anthology tends to reflect credit on their school and to afford satisfaction to them in seeing their word in print. The contest further stimulates scholarly competition in intellectual work.

Any student in senior or junior high school is privileged to submit as many poems as he wishes on any subject and in any form.

Dr. E. E. Sollars, Deer Park, Dies

Dr. Edward Eli Sollars, practicing physician in Deer Park for over 40 years, died yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Paul Campbell, of Rawlings. He was 73.

Dr. Sollars began his practice in Deer Park in 1910 and was active in the community until 1952. He was an invalid for about five years prior to his death.

A native of Hoes, Md., he was born October 6, 1884 and was a son of the late Edward and Sarah Catherine (Keller) Sollars. In 1903, Doctor Sollars graduated from Charlotte Hall (Md.) Military Academy and taught for two years in Garrett County schools.

Later he attended the Maryland Medical College where he graduated in 1909 and served his internship at Franklin Square Hospital in Baltimore.

His wife Mrs. Mary (George) Sollars preceded him in death. Dr. Sollars was a member of the Methodist Church, Camp 21, Woodmen of the World of Deer Park and had been a member of the Garrett County Medical Association.

Surviving besides his daughter are a son Edward Sollars, of Deer Park, a sister, Mrs. W. L. Phillips, Mt. Lake Park and five grandchildren. A funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p. m. in the Methodist Church in Deer Park. Burial will be in the Deer Park Cemetery. The body will be at the home of a nephew, W. E. George at Deer Park.

Dr. Smith To Speak April 26

Dr. Paul Smith, Washington, from the NEA headquarters, will be the guest speaker at the combined meeting of the International Relations Group of the Frostburg-Georges Creek, American Association of University Women and the International Relations Club of State Teachers College.

Dr. Smith, who attended the Congressional hearings on foreign aid, will discuss, "Foreign Aid, Is It Meeting the Need?"

Open to the public, the meeting is to be held April 26 at the college, beginning with a banquet at 6:30. It will be the final meeting of the year for the AAUW group.

The college club is in charge of the program, which will be at 7:15. Guests may attend the banquet and program, or just the program. Reservations are to be made by today for the former, none are necessary for the latter.

Dr. Hazel Ramsay and Dr. Howard Louis Briggs are advisors of the two International Relations groups.

Delegates Are Named

Delegates to the state convention were named at a meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary of LaVale Volunteer Fire department, held Friday. They include Mrs. Fannie Kemp, Mrs. Emma Youngblood, Mrs. Elizabeth Zembower, Mrs. Elda Schell and Mrs. Gladys Burkey.

Mrs. Burkey presided at the meeting and appointed an anniversary committee. The opening prayer was offered by Mrs. Elizabeth Moody. Mrs. Leola Kniever reported on the spring conference held in Baltimore. Mrs. Schell gave the kitchen report.

Remove the winter grime with this old-fashioned window-cleaning formula: one teaspoon of ammonia to one gallon of water. A final rubdown with an alcohol-saturated rag will leave windows really sparkling.

In altering a seam or hem, rip it, pin it and baste it along the desired line before you press out the old line. This makes measuring easier.

Don't risk bending the clasp on a decorative pin by trying to pin it over a button. If you want it placed where the button is, pin it alongside the buttonhole before you button the garment.

JOANN FREELAND

JoAnn Freeland To Be Bride Of Roger Parker

Mr. and Mrs. J. George Freeland, 93 Charlevoix Place, Romney, W. Va., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Jo Ann Freeland, to Roger Peyton Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest D. Parker, also of Romney.

The wedding ceremony is to be solemnized June 1, at 5:30 p. m., in the Romney Methodist Church.

Miss Freeland is a graduate of Romney High School and Potomac State College, where she was president of Kappa Delta Psi sorority. She also attended Kent State University, Kent, Ohio. She now teaches at the West Virginia School for the Deaf at Romney.

Mr. Parker is a graduate of Romney High School, Potomac State College and will graduate in May from Morris Harvey College, Charleston, W. Va., where he is affiliated with the Independent Student Association.

CDA To Honor Mary S. Jones

Members of Court Cardinal Gibbons, Catholic Daughters of America will recite the rosary for Mrs. Mary Shaffer Jones, at 7:15 tonight at the George Funeral Home.

They will form a guard of honor at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at St. Patrick's Catholic Church. Mrs. Jones was the first grand regent of the court.

Before buying that spring suit, examine the lining to see that it is cut amply enough to give when worn. If it isn't, it will be uncomfortable and liable to pull apart at seams.

Don't risk bending the clasp on a decorative pin by trying to pin it over a button. If you want it placed where the button is, pin it alongside the buttonhole before you button the garment.

Oldtown Club Tours New Home

Members of the Oldtown Homemakers Club were invited to tour the new home of Mrs. Richard Santymire, at the meeting held at her home recently. Mrs. Roy Twigg presided at the meeting and roll call was answered with members listing some of the modern equipment in the house they would like to have, or the originality of the furnishings.

The Homemakers Creed was repeated in unison. Mrs. John Twigg and Mrs. Herbert Howard reported on the lamp shade demonstration and displayed fiber glass shades they had made. A routine report was given by Mrs. Lillian Confer. Mrs. Howard reported 50 magazines and six books were read during the month. Mrs. Eugene Carder collected Blue Cross insurance. Mrs. Garland Myerll and Mrs. Howard also told of the flower show they attended last month in Washington.

Miss Mary Wise spoke on storage in the home. She stressed replacing equipment when the work is finished; store at point of first use; flexibility of storage; adjusting stripping in closets to individual usage of equipment. She also showed slides of storage problems. She pointed out that the test of good storage is easy to reach; to see; and to grasp.

Happy Birthday was sung to Mrs. Marie Twigg. Club members presented individual gifts to Mrs. Santymire in the form of a housewarming. Refreshments were served with Mrs. John Twigg and Mrs. Emmett Henry assisting the hostess. There were 20 members present.

The next meeting will be at the school cafeteria, May 15, with Mrs. Sadie Athey, Mrs. Rose Lewis and Mrs. Confer hostesses.

Secretaries Mark Week

Observing Secretaries Week, April 20-26, Algonquin Chapter began the week by attending services at Centre Street Methodist Church, Sunday, as a "fitting and symbolic beginning honoring The First Lady of Business."

Besides the "after 5" work on civic projects, the chapter plans news items, as well as a luncheon at Anton's Wednesday and a dinner that evening at the Cumberland Country Club. Friday night it will sponsor a dance at the Ali Ghan Country Club. This affair is for the benefit of the Scholarship fund to send a girl to Catherman's Business College.

Mrs. Carl Jewell, 7 Potomac Heights, Ridgeley, has returned from Baltimore, after attending the funeral of her father, Harry E. Payne.

The next meeting will be May 21 at the home of Mrs. Jessie Leasure, 320 Waverly Terrace.

Girl Scouts Plan Training For Leaders

A weekend of leadership training at the Cumberland Girl Scout camp near Flintstone has been planned for May 2-3, according to Olive M. Hurlburt, Girl Scout executive.

Mrs. Z. F. Zimowski is chairman. The group will leave the Girl Scout House here at 1 p. m. May 2 and conclude the program at the camp at 8 p. m. May 3.

At a recent leaders' planning meeting, it was decided to make the first evening's program in the form of a dramatics workshop with Mrs. Leonard Schwab in charge.

Nature hikes and other projects will be carried out in the afternoons under supervision of Mrs. Aden Everstine. Camp craft and different types of outdoor cooking will feature the program on Saturday morning, May 3, directed by Mrs. Alton Fortney.

Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Edward Milbrada before April 30.

for every 30 students in a school, and the faculty total includes such non-teaching personnel as a principal and librarian.

It was generally agreed that teachers can do a more efficient job with smaller classes, and extra instructors for special fields.

The necessity for professional ethics in the school and community was stressed in the ethics workshop. In regards to the participation by teachers in politics, it was felt that such action would be ethical as long as it was non-partisan in the classroom.

Mayor Hails Optimistic Plant Report

Mayor Roy W. Eves said yesterday an optimistic economic report by local and area industries should encourage those who tend to be discouraged and pessimistic about the current national recession.

The Mayor referred to an article in the Sunday Times which cited the optimistic outlook and continued good business here despite the decline on a national scale.

Eves said accordingly that Cumberland is better off than the national average and commended the article.

While he said he recognized this is not helpful to the man out of work at present, he concluded that citizens should feel optimistic because the city and area are better off than the rest of the nation.

On another matter, Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan hailed the Civil Aeronautics Board decision under which Allegheny Airlines will continue service here. He said he knew the service is limited but "We're still glad to have it."

And Finance Commissioner John J. Loag said the CAB ruling speaks well for the fight which the city staged through its attorney, Thomas B. Finan. He said the air service is a help to the city both from the promotion and economic standpoint.

On still another matter, Keegan asked for a report on the status of the third low-rent housing project on Oldtown Road. He said the old houses to be removed have been standing idle for some time.

Mayor Eves said that after plans had been completed, it was found that part of the property had been included in SRC plans for the Expressway.

As a result, the plans have had to be changed and properties interchanged by the two groups. This has taken time, he said, adding that a definite plan has been whipped into shape now.

Lakes Overflow

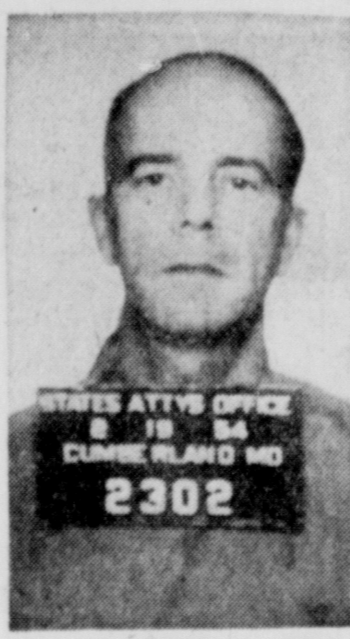

The water level at Lake Gordon is one inch above the crest of the spillway and two inches above at Lake Koon. C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Everts Creek Water Company, reported to the Mayor and Council yesterday. Consumption for the week ending yesterday was 80,250,000 gallons compared to 82,870,000 the same period a year ago.

Thailand Surgeon Sees Annual Children's Clinic

Dr. Charu Sukhabote of Thailand, who has been studying reconstructive surgery while doing post graduate work in this country, was an interested observer at the annual clinic held here Saturday by Dr. Edward Kitowski, noted Baltimore plastic surgeon.

Dr. Sukhabote is completing his second year of work with Dr. Kitowski at Children Hospital and Kernans Hospital in Baltimore, and will leave later this year for his native land where he intends to practice such surgery.

There were 111 patients examined at the clinic Saturday, which was sponsored by the Maryland Crippled Children's League. Of the number examined, 30 were recommended for surgery, according to Miss Henrietta Lippold, executive secretary of the

City To Deed Armory Land

Mayor Roy W. Eves was authorized by the Mayor and Council yesterday to accept a deed from the Board of Allegheny County Commissioners for 18 lots in the Cumberland Development Company's Ridgedale Addition.

In turn, the Mayor was authorized to deed certain lots to the Military Department of Maryland in connection with the proposed construction of a new National Guard Armory on the site.

Park Concession Bid Awarded

The bid of Joseph Jolley to operate the concession and casino at Constitution Park was accepted yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

Jolley had offered $650 a year for three years for the contract which was $50 higher than the other bid submitted last week.

Laborers Appointed By Rec Department

Three laborers for the Recreation Department were approved yesterday by the Mayor and Council.

They are Paul E. Billard, Kenneth Messman and Lawson A. Wolfe. All will receive $1.30 an hour.

Wheat Helps Solve The Farm Problem

Exporters expect another good year for wheat, despite Canadian protests and stiffer competition for world markets.

During the 1956-57 crop year 549 million bushels were cleared for export. The Department of Agriculture set a goal of 400 million bushels for the 1957-58 year. Grave doubts were expressed that this goal would even be approached, much let met. Now there is hope the goal may be exceeded.

Agreement for sales have been reached beyond expectations. Turkey wants 250,000 metric tons. Other agreements have been signed with Pakistan, Greece, Israel and Yugoslavia. Negotiations are under way with India. Importing nations elsewhere are increasing their takings, reflecting short crops in the exporting nations of Argentina and Australia.

During the last six months of 1957 the U. S. exported 196 million bushels, down 21 per cent from the comparable period of the previous crop year. During the current six months it is expected that the export of wheat will more than double that of the past six months.

While these are not really sales, they are a valuable contribution to solution of the farm problem. The wheat goes abroad for native currency. The price is considerably below prices paid by the government for the wheat. But such "sales" reduce the surplus and promise an earlier end of distress wheat.

An extension of the law that permits these transactions is being asked and doubtless will be granted. But when the time comes that wheat can stand on its own feet in the market places, the government will retire from the scene as an exporter and taxpayers will be relieved of the load of losses taken in such deals.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

"The Naked God"

Howard Fast has had a long career as a member of the Communist Party and as a writer. The two careers were intertwined as ideas and actions are in all human beings. He has now left the Communist Party in anger, in bitterness, in a mood of triumph over the forces that shackled him for so many years.

He has written a book, "The Naked God," which has been reviewed so diversely by different professional book reviewers, that I, an anti-Communist, desire to give what I hope will be regarded as an impartial view of this extremely important human document.

Fast makes no effort to carry forward his personal problem by literary forensics. He tells the simple story of a youth who wants justice and goes the wrong way about finding it. To expect more than this admission of error in the first full statement of the case is to expect too much.

Men do not leave causes to which they have devoted their lives without a degree of regret, of shame, even of uncertainty. Over the years, it may develop that Howard Fast does the final job, probably in a novel, of exposing shabbiness of the movement to which he gave his talents and his years. Certainly, one who believes that the writer must express himself at any cost, because that is his genius and his gift from God, cannot lie fallow because of a disappointment, no matter how deep.

At a point, remote, it is true, Fast's life and mine paralleled, although years apart. Practically children, we both worked after school hours in a public library in Harlem, stacking books on shelves. He got 25 cents an hour; my wage came to $2.50 a week. He seems to complain at the youth he lost; but we both lived among books and read everything there was to read. We probably worked in the same branch library, but he is younger than I am.

Most of us lived in comparative poverty in those environs but few of us overthrew the God of our fathers and accepted Communism as a way of life. One cannot read Fast's book, "The Naked God," without feeling that the initial forces that bring young people into this and similar movements of protest are different from what they believe them to be. Often, it is accidental; often it is loneliness, the eternal search for friends; often it is a revolt from the ugliness of living in foul-smelling, noisy tenements. Who can ever know what sparks revolve against an environment, out of which one can grow into a better life without becoming enslaved to a cause that is narrow, stultifying, hateful, and from which, when he reaches full maturity, he has to rebel all over again—and to rebel when it is so much harder, particularly as one develops a vested interest in error.

Howard Fast has written an enormously significant book which will have a profound influence on Communists and sincere fellow-travellers. Nothing can influence the opportunists and time-servers, those who have found in their associations with Russia not only an opportunity to strut their so-called progressive and liberal attitudes, but also, in some instances, to earn a wayward dollar, directly or indirectly, through their Russian associations. It is a better yet seen. Inside the party techniques that I have yet seen. Whitaker Chambers, in "Witness," deals more with the espionage characteristics of Communist associations, more with the betrayal of a man, with his stultification intellectually and spiritually. In the sum total, Fast, who avoids naming names, tells more than most have ever described of the inner core.

Each break of tight human relationships leaves a scar; often a painful scar. All scars are ugly. Fast has scars and his scars show in this book. But he has stated his case and he is, in the freedom of this country, entitled to state it as often and in as many different ways as he can. Those who believe that because he once was so subjectively party discipline, he cannot now, in our great troubles, serve the United States valiantly, are without truth or knowledge. Fast can, if he will, serve America faithfully and valuably for the rest of his years.

'Who You Gonna Believe — Me Or Ike?'

The Ambassador Is Laughing Up His Sleeve

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

The Soviet Ambassador to Paris, Sergei Alexandrovich Vinogradov, must be smiling even more broadly than usual at this moment. But then he smiles at the time, carefully directing his broad beams at members of the more extreme French-wing groups in business and politics.

The Vinogradov themes that are so beamingly expounded are both simple and appealing. The Soviet Union is France's friend. The Soviet Union recognizes and approves France's historic position in North Africa. The United States, in contrast, is France's secret enemy. The United States hankers to get possession of the oil of the Sahara, and to replace France in North Africa. In fact, the whole difficulty in Algeria is nothing but an American plot.

Why, then, does not France break her alliance with the United States, seek Soviet support in the North African situation and on other matters, and return to the old link with Russia that existed in the past?

Even before this reporter left Paris, Ambassador Vinogradov had had enough success with this line of talk to produce a minor scandal. (He was invited to a shooting party by the bearer of one of France's great old names. This had outraged some of the other bearers of great old names, who are not only anti-Bolshevik but often still pro-Romanov.) Since then, Vinogradov's beaming expositions of Soviet loveliness and American villainy have found a measurably wider audience as, appeared in the defeat of the Gaillard government on the Tunisian issue with its attendant storm of anti-American emotion. It would be very wrong, of course, to explain this anti-

American storm altogether as, as just another of those Soviet "propaganda victories" that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles so sadly complains about. At the climax of the Indo-Chinese tragedy, there was another anti-American storm of the same sort, without any Soviet intervention, but with all the same charges that broadly America was plotting to consist of two propositions. The first proposition is that France not only can but must have her cake and eat it too. And the second proposition, which is trotted out when proposition number one does not work, is that France has been betrayed — by her friends and allies, naturally, and not by her enemies or her own weaknesses.

The effort to have the cake and eat it too has been glaringly apparent from the beginning of the Tunisian crisis. Shortly before the crisis began, the French Chief of General Staff, General Paul Ely, officially informed the reconquest of Tunisia would cost four hundred billion francs a year and would require national mobilization. The price was thought to be too high by everyone, including the Right-wing parliamentary leaders who very much wanted to reconquer Tunisia.

Even today, even among the most extreme French Right-wingers, the price of a reconquest of Tunisia is still thought to be too high. But that prevents no one from demanding the practical fruits of a reconquest of Tunisia with extreme insistence and indignation, and when the American government fails to back these demands to the hilt, the American government is violently blamed.

So much being said, however, it has to be admitted that Ambassador Vinogradov's smiling efforts have made immense progress in the last week, and are due to make more progress in the time ahead. The only Soviet purpose, of course, is to separate France from the Western Alliance by the lever of the North African problem, which most naturally excites the deepest national emotions. In Britain, the same pattern appears. But in Britain the Soviet appeal is to the Left rather than the Right, and the lever being used is the strong (and again natural) tide of British emotion on the issue of nuclear disarmament.

The fact now has to be faced, moreover, that the break-up of the Western Alliance is an entirely possible event, which may even occur at a rather early date. Any sensible man can see that the Western nations will hang separately if they do not hang together. But after years of feeble leadership in all three of the great nations of the West, hanging together is getting more and more difficult, and hanging separately is becoming more and more probable.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When the Prexola said the Kruscher was pulling a gimmick he was reaching into the barrel for happy talk.

A gimmick means the difference. And gives the gimmicker a well-honed edge.

You have as much chance against a gimmicked roulette sprocket as a sardine in a can factory. The wheel can be gimmicked with the foot or the belly squeeze or both.

The word stems from gimcrack which meant an all-round grifter. The jack-of-all-capers could give you cards and spades and beat you with his feathered head shuffle.

We don't know how the Prexy got hold of the word but he didn't pronounce it right. The accent is from the side of the mouth.

It also includes low-level wiring of the spinning bingo platter. A sucker could get electrocuted betting the wrong number.

The swining door kid clattering the marks down at Miami. He could make the pill jump like the winner of the Grand National.

Treating Hyperthyroidism In Children

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many children go through periods when they are nervous, irritable, and fatigued; they lose weight and have a poor appetite. Parents are concerned, more so when relatives and friends remark how jumpy, pale, and thin Johnny is.

The physician must do a complete examination to evaluate these symptoms. The discrepancy in weight can be explained because variations occur on different scales, at different times of the day, and whether clothing is worn.

But not all cases of nervousness and weight loss are this simple. For example, Susan, 3½ years old, was the healthiest child on the block until five months ago. She became jittery and cranky, and tired so easily that she played less and rested more. Despite decreased activity and a voracious appetite, she lost 6 pounds.

Further questioning of the mother revealed that the child perspired profusely and could not stand a blanket over her at night. She had prominent eyeballs and a fine tremor of the fingers and hands. The thyroid was twice its normal size and overactivity of the gland was suspected. Tests for thyrotoxicosis showed that Susan's trouble stemmed from increased production of the thyroid hormone.

In the past, these youngsters were given iodine drops and the gland was removed 10 days to two weeks later. Nowadays, considerable reliance is placed upon the new anti-thyroid medications. If the child can be carried safely through puberty, surgery rarely is necessary. The situation requires close cooperation between the little patient, the physician, and the laboratory, especially during the first few months of treatment.

SURGERY IN ANGINA
F. L. writes: What is the surgical procedure that is done on occasion for angina pectoris?

REPLY
In angina pectoris, the circulation to the heart muscle is deficient because the coronary arteries are narrowed and thickened. Several operations have been devised to improve circulation. The most popular is a simple procedure devised by Dr. C. S. Beck of Cleveland. The outer surface of the heart is irritated to cause an adherent that it sticks, or becomes adherent to the inner surface of the sac surrounding the heart. These adhesions form a bridge through which a new source of blood reaches the cardiac muscle to make up for the deficit caused by hardening of the arteries.

GRATING JAW
M. M. writes: Why do I feel a grating and snapping sensation upon opening my mouth wide?

REPLY
When the hinge of the jaw grates on movement, the cause may be arthritis or an impromptu bite (malocclusion). Consult your physician and dentist for diagnosis and treatment.

TO SNEEZE OR NOT TO
E. J. writes: Sneeze your heart hint says to stifles a sneeze. Won't this be harmful by creating too much pressure in the head?

Wall Street Lawyers Pressure Justice Department About Gas

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — It isn't supposed to be known, but the heat is on the Justice Department for another big compromise in an antitrust case. It involves the price of gas to millions of people. Secret huddles have been taking place in the Justice Department to stop a grand jury now meeting in Milwaukee which is considering criminal indictments against the big three which supply gas to Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota.

Four of the biggest law firms in the country represent the gas companies: Sullivan and Cromwell, the former firm of John Foster Dulles; the Tom Dewey law firm in New York; Sidley, Austin, Burgess and Smith of Chicago; and Cravath, Swaine and Moore of New York.

Twice before, this case came up for prosecution, and twice it was suddenly called off. On one occasion the Justice Department's Antitrust Division even had a press release prepared and was ready to file a bill of complaint on July 8, 1957, in the U. S. District Court in Milwaukee. Suddenly the press release was withdrawn and the complaint was held back.

The case is against the American Natural Gas Co., Peoples Gas Light and Coke, represented by the Dewey law firm, and Northern Natural Gas, all under investigation for conspiring to prevent Tennessee Gas Transmission from supplying gas to the north central states from a pipeline linking Canada with Texas.

John Merriam, president of Northern Natural Gas and brother of Eisenhower's Assistant Director of the Budget who ran for mayor of Chicago, had an appointment with Assistant Attorney General Victor Hansen yesterday to try to call off the dogs.

Prediction: This time new Attorney General Rogers will not yield to big utility pressure.

Ike's Phone Calls

Inside story can now be told how President Eisenhower got on the telephone to Congressional leaders in a last-minute attempt to block the highway bill before it was sent to the White House for his reluctant signature.

Before the final House vote, Ike phoned Illinois Congressman Les Arends, the Republican whip, and urged him to send the bill back to the Public Works Committee for further study.

The President explained that he wanted better highways but objected to financing them out of current cash. He thought a highway fund should be raised first by taxing tires and gasoline. He also didn't like the Democrats' plan to require the states to pay only one-third of the highway cost. He preferred a fifty-fifty arrangement.

Arends promised to sidetrack the bill if possible and hastily put through a long-distance call to Congressman Harry McGreggor, top Republican on the Public Works Committee, who had gone home to West Lafayette, O., ahead of the Lefayette vacation. Arends asked McGreggor to come back to Washington to help maneuver the highway bill into committee.

Back in Washington, McGreggor also received a phone call from Ike. First assistant President Sherman Adams phoned and asked McGreggor to remain in his office for 30 minutes to await a call from the President.

When Ike got on the phone, he repeated the same arguments that he had given to Arends against the Democrats' highway bill.

McGreggor, who has been a battler for better highways, gave in to the President's personal plea and tried to sidetrack the bill. In the end, however, the Democrats pushed through their bill and the President reluctantly signed it.

NOTE — It was Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks who persuaded Ike to intervene personally in an attempt to block the highway bill. Weeks was opposed to the financing provisions and the ban against billboards. Under Weeks' prompting, Ike told Congressional leaders privately that he would never again sign a bill requiring the states to raise only one-third of the revenue.

Nixon-Go-Round

Vice President Nixon's private comments about American foreign policy are almost as critical as the Democrats' public comments. Nixon admits America has slipped in world leadership, blames it upon Secretary of State Dulles. Nixon complains that Dulles lacks imagination, is unwilling to take bold diplomatic gambles. . . . The Vice President claims Dulles may be more willing to meet Russia half-way now that Harold Stassen is no longer disarmament negotiator.

Dulles disliked Stassen so intensely, Nixon says, that the Secretary opposed Stassen's ideas for purely personal reasons. . . . Nixon believes the main Communist threat today is aimed at undermining the neutral nations and our Latin American neighbors. . . . The Vice President blames the Indonesian revolt upon political immaturity. He declares privately that Indonesia was not fit for self-government. . . . After listening to Nixon's snap conclusions about the countries he has visited, experts describe his reactions as those of a "superficial sight-seer." . . . Nixon is so confident of a summit meeting that he is holding up personal plans for a trip abroad.

The Brussels Fair

By Bob Considine

BRUSSELS, April 21 — (INS) —James A. Farley, who deprived some poor elephant of his memory the day he was born, was inspecting the handsome, 1,100-seat theatre in the American exhibit at the World's Fair the other day when he was approached by U. S. Consul General Burton Chadbourn, stationed at Hamburg.

"You don't know me, Mr. Farley," Chadbourn said after giving his name, "but . . .

"Just a minute," Jim said furrowing his brow. "I issued a marriage license to your parents thirty years ago when I was town clerk of Stony Point, New York. Your mother's name was Elma Rhinehart."

"That's what I wanted to tell you," Chadbourn marvelled, then after a pause added: "But wasn't it more than thirty years ago?"

Jim thought a bit. "Yes, I guess it was. I was town clerk from 1912 to 1920."

"Thanks," said the Consul General. "You see, I am thirty two." The biggest fable yet manufactured at the Brussels Fair is that you can buy a slab of caviar at the restaurant in the Russian pavilion for six Belgian francs — 12 cents. We tried it last night and the price is 180 Belgian francs — or $3.60.

Those boys will get back their $50,000,000 fair investment by the end of the month.

I think Congress should strike some sort of medal for Edward D. Stone, the architect of the American pavilion. The place and its surrounding structures are so beautiful people are already commenting on what a crying shame it will be to tear the exhibit down in October. A lot of what is inside the pavilion, especially the avant-garde art and sculpture will make some visiting Americans angry. But it is not likely that they or world's fairs to come will ever forget Stone's masterpiece.

A waiter at the Czechoslovakian pavilion, which has just about the best food at the fair, looked up to us the other night, looked around to see if the head waiter was watching or listening, and whispered:

"My brother has a restaurant in your Wisconsin state."

"Swell," we said, "where in Wisconsin?"

He took another look around then said: "Little Bohemia, Wisconsin, it is a resort. Your Mister Dillinger lived there," he explained without a note of pride.

Just talked to a distinguished Austrian princess who attended the ball King Badoen gave at the Royal Palace Saturday night for 6,500 members of Europe's fading royalty, foreign diplomats and fair brass. We asked her to describe the splendid affair, from which reporters naturally were barred.

"A rat race," the princess said, flicking an ash from her cigar.

It is officially safe now to visit the Brussels Fair. The British sausage has been banned. Belgian food laws take the sticky view that a sausage should be fundamentally meat. This naturally ruled the British hotdog off the course. Anglophiles are furious. Anglophobes say good riddance. Epicures agree.

International Business Machines have a stupefying gizmo in operation in the company exhibits. Ask the operator to have it name the principal historic facts and events for any of the past 1,962 years and within less than a second it will respond on a highspeed electric typewriter in any of these pre-selected languages, English, French, Dutch, German, Italian, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, Swedish and Interlingua, an international composite tongue. Ask for "1786" for example and the machine instantly writes, "Mozart composed his first opera at the age of 11. Christian the 7th became King of Denmark. . . ."

The machine is known to other electric brains as IBM's 305 Ramac but those who have only a nodding acquaintance call it "random access memory accounting and controls," which seems the least it is due.

"April showers bring May flowers," according to the poet. That's right—along with crabgrass, dandelions, and—according to our well-thumbed garden encyclopedia—some 600 more other types of weeds.

During a freak storm tiny frogs rained down on Budapest, Hungary. It could have been worse—there wasn't a single cat or dog among 'em.

It's costing the New York City Ballet $15,000 to "shoe" its dancers.

For its Asian performance tour. Who says the entertainment world has no nose?

City officials of Spezia, Italy, have refused to register a just-born child because his name is Genghis Khan Garibini. Good thing the original Genghis isn't around or there might be a Mongol invasion of Europe to settle the insult.

A Mississippi farmer was arrested because, enraged over an item he read in a weekly newspaper, he challenged the editor to a duel. What was this hot-tempered agriculturist trying to prove—that the sword, after all, is mightier than the pen?

17 Mt. Savage Students Enter Poetry Contest

MT. SAVAGE — Seventeen students of Mt. Savage High School have had their creative writings submitted by the English department to the twentieth annual high school poetry contest sponsored by the National High School Poetry Association.

Last year 25 poems of Mt. Savage students were published in either the fall or spring section of the organization's anthology, "Young America Sings." This year no poems were submitted for the fall contest.

The recognition which students gain from having their poems included in the anthology tends to reflect credit on their school and to afford satisfaction to them in seeing their word in print. The contest further stimulates scholarly competition in intellectual work.

Any student in senior or junior high school is privileged to submit as many poems as he wishes on any subject and in any form.

Dr. E. E. Sollars, Deer Park, Dies

Dr. Edward Eli Sollars, practicing physician in Deer Park for over 40 years, died yesterday morning at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Paul Campbell, of Rawlins. He was 73.

Dr. Sollars began his practice in Deer Park in 1910 and was active in the community until 1952. He was an invalid for about five years prior to his death.

A native of Hoes, Md., he was born October 6, 1884 and was a son of the late Edward and Sarah Catherine (Keller) Sollars.

In 1903, Doctor Sollars graduated from Charlotte Hall (Md.) Military Academy and taught for two years in Garrett County schools.

Later he attended the Maryland Medical College where he graduated in 1909 and served his internship at Franklin Square Hospital in Baltimore.

His wife Mrs. Mary (George) Sollars preceded him in death. Dr. Sollars was a member of the Methodist Church, Camp 21 Woodmen of the World of Deer Park and had been a member of the Garrett County Medical Association.

Surviving besides his daughter are a son Edward Sollars, of Deer Park, a sister, Mrs. W. L. Phillips, Mt. Lake Park and five grandchildren.

A funeral service will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the Methodist Church in Deer Park. Burial will be in the Deer Park Cemetery. The body will be at the home of a nephew, W. E. George at Deer Park.

Three Unbeaten County League Teams Play Here Today

Campers Test Yesterday And Today At The Tracks

Beall, Valley Faces Ft. Hill

LaSalle At Bruce, Keyser Seeks 4th Victory In PVC

The three unbeaten teams in the Allegany County Inter-School Athletic League will see action here today when Allegany High School entertains the Beall High Mountaineers at Campobello and Fort Hill's Sentinels tackle the Valley High Black Knights at Fort Hill Field.

Allegany and Beall are both undefeated in their first two outings. Fort Hill, defending champion, owns a 2-0 record in the league while Valley High has dropped two in a row.

The LaSalle-Bruce game has been shifted from Celanese Field to Westport while Flintstone's Aggies will tackle Mt. Savage High School at the latter place.

Bruce and LaSalle will meet at 3:30 p. m., and the other three contests are scheduled to get underway at 4 p. m.

Unbeaten PVC Teams Play

There are three unbeaten teams in the Potomac Valley Conference and all are slated to play today.

Keyser High School will be shooting for its fourth straight victory when it engages the Petersburg High Vikings on the Grant countians' field.

Sid Roach's Paw Paw Pirates (2-0) battle Allen Goldstrom's Berkeley Springs Indians (2-0) on the latter's field.

Moorefield High School, trailing the leaders with a 3-1 record, faces Curtis "Gus" Smith's Franklin High Panthers at Franklin, Fort Ashby opposes the Southern Highlanders in the latter's home opener at Oakland and Circleville visits Mathias in other P.V.C. engagements.

Coach Harry McKinley's Hyndman High tossers will be gunning for their third straight victory in the Bedford County League when they meet Everett-Southern High School at Everett.

Bobcats At Mt. Savage

Frostburg State Teachers College (1-3) hosts the Shippensburg (Pa.) State Teachers at Mt. Savage today at 2 p. m. The Bobcats have dropped their last two games to West Virginia Freshmen, 7-2, and Shepherd College, 13-10.

Mr. Turf Beats Third Brother

JAMAICA, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—Jack J. Amiel's Mr. Turf made his own pace to win the Stamford Purse at Jamaica Race Track today.

The 9-year-old son of Sun Again Thine, ridden by Paul Bailey, led every step of the way in scoring by two lengths in the good time of 1:43 3/5 for the mile and a sixteenth.

Christopher T. Cheney's Third Brother came from far back to take the place by a half length over Oden Phipps' Bureauary, who nosed Jacques D. Wimpfheimer's Jocko's Walk for the show end of the purse.

Solid favorite with the crowd of 28,642, Mr. Turf returned the across the board mutuels of $4.80, $2.90 and $2.40. Third Brother paid $3.50 and $2.60 and Bureauary was $2.80 to show.

Frank J. O'Neill, 82, Former Coach, Dies

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP)—Frank J. (Buck) O'Neill, well-known college football coach, died in a nursing home here Monday. He was 82.

A member of the football Hall of Fame, O'Neill retired from coaching in 1922 after having served at Williams College, Colgate University, Syracuse and Columbia.

He began his coaching career while a senior at Williams. After graduation in 1902 he assumed coaching chores at Colgate in that season and in 1904 and 1905.

He coached Syracuse football teams in 1906 and 1907 and returned to direct the teams from 1913 to 1915 and 1917 to 1919.

He retired after three seasons at Columbia, where one of his players was Lou Gehrig, who later was to achieve baseball fame with the New York Yankees.

Willie Pastrano Wins In England

LEICESTER, England (AP)—American heavyweight Willie Pastrano outpointed Jamaican Joe Bygraves in 10 fast-moving but fairly harmless rounds Monday night.

For Pastrano it was his third victory in a British ring in six months.

Bygraves, former British Empire champion, weighed 205 and a half pounds, outweighing the stylist from New Orleans by 17 1/2 pounds.

Bygraves in the early rounds charged Pastrano.

The Jamaican landed some good punches at this stage but the American, third ranked contender for Floyd Patterson's world crown, always danced out of trouble.

The Associated Press scorecard made it seven rounds for Pastrano with three for Bygraves. There were no knockdowns.

Catches Nice Trout

David Wakefield, 12-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer D. Wakefield, of LaVale, hooked a trout 14 1/2 inches long, while fishing Sunday on Deep Creek Lake opposite McHenry. The speckled beauty weighed more than three pounds. It was the first trout that the lad ever had caught.

ADVERTISMENT

CARBURETOR SAVES

GAS BY "JET-ING"

Car owners who are wasting money and not getting proper gas—mileage due to over-rich mixtures will be pleased to learn of a Wisconsin inventor who has developed a very clever unit that saves gasoline by "Jet-ing" and Vacuum-mating. It is automatic and operates on the supercharge principle. Easily installed in a few minutes. Fits cars, trucks and tractors. The manufacturers, the Vacuumatic Carburetor Co., 7617-579-R State St., Wauwatosa, Wis., are offering a Vacuumatic to anyone who will install it on his car to save gas and to help introduce it to others. They will gladly send full free particulars if you write them or send your name and address on a post card today.

New Fire Truck Arrives

Members of Central Fire Company display the city's newest piece of fire fighting equipment. The American-LaFrance 1,250 gallon triple combination pumper arrived here yesterday and was taken to Central Fire Department, where it will be Engine No. 1.

Seated in the semi-cab vehicle are Lt. William F. Hartung and Robert H. Meister. Pipemen Jacob Winters and Harry D. Smith are standing on the truck which will be placed in service when it has been tested.

Worry of FALSE TEETH Slipping or Irritating?

Don't be embarrassed by loose false teeth slipping, dropping or wobbling when you eat, talk or laugh. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH on your plates. This pleasant powder gives a remarkable sense of added comfort and security by holding plates more firmly. No gummy, gooey, pasty taste or feeling. It's alkaline (non-acid). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Those interested are invited to phone, see or write Aetna Finance Co., 48 N. Centre St., Dial PA 4-5800. (Loans Over $300 made under Md. Industrial Finance Act).

Preston County Gets Detainers On Two Men

Sheriff C. F. Harriman, Kingwood, W. Va., said last night federal detainer warrants have been received by Preston County officials against two of three men awaiting grand jury action for the alleged armed robbery of Dave Brown, near Romney, on March 31. The warrants have been issued against Patrick Edward Patterson, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Harry George Voelker, 23, McKeesport, Pa. The former is charged with violation of his conditional release from the Federal Reformatory at Chillicothe, Ohio. Voelker is charged as a parole violator from the Chillicothe institution. Patterson and Forrest Lipscomb, 20, of Thomas, were ordered held for grand jury action in the June term of Preston County Circuit Court, charged with the armed robbery of Brown. Voelker waived preliminary hearing on a charge of being an accessory before the fact of the robbery. All three were apprehended in Winchester, Va., in Brown's car which they admittedly stole in an attempt to reach Texas to ship out for Cuba to join Castro's rebel army there.

Dr. Everhart Dies At Home

Dr. Lysle R. Everhart, 60, died suddenly about 6 o'clock last evening at his home, 525 National Highway, after an illness of one week.

Dr. Everhart would have been 61 next July 20. He was born in Keyser, W. Va., a son of Clarence L. Everhart and the late Birdie (Rogers) Everhart.

A general practitioner Dr. Everhart had his office at his home in LaVale. He had been a local physician here for many years.

The doctor is survived by his father; his widow, Mrs. Margaret E. (Grimes) Everhart; a son, Lysle R. Everhart Jr., and a daughter, Linda May Everhart, both at home; and a sister, Mrs. Ray F. Small, Keyser.

Dr. Everhart was a graduate of Keyser High School and the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia, Pa.

The body is at the Stein Funeral Home.

Jury Acquits

Jury, Omar T. Kayor Jr., state's attorney for Washington County, told the jury somewhat the same facts in the case that the complaining witness had testified to.

He was assisted in the case by Wayne Stultz, assistant state's attorney, and James S. Getty, state's attorney for Allegany County.

Martin V. B. Bostetter, Hagerstown, counsel for Kneisley, told the jury in his opening statement that Kneisley had been out earlier that evening and had consumed quite a large amount of intoxicants.

Bostetter said that Kneisley and another man were in the vicinity of the housing project but that his client had gone home about 1:45 a.m. and this could be verified through his parents. The young man was employed at a furniture company at the time. Edward J. Ryan assisted Bostetter in the defense.

The regular petit jury panel was exhausted and 18 talsmen were brought into court from downtown Cumberland. A majority of them are retired railroad workers.

Three Builders Obtain Permits

Building permits were issued to three Allegany County residents yesterday by the County Assessing Department.

James J. Jordan, of Potomac Park, in District 6, was issued a permit to build an addition to a dwelling at a cost of about $3,000. The 14 foot by 26 foot frame addition will have a concrete block foundation and shingle roof.

Paul Boch, of LaVale, in District 29, was granted a permit to build a two-car garage at an estimated cost of $1,200. It will be built of concrete blocks with a composition roof.

A Mt. Savage resident, Edwin L. Illiff, was granted a permit to build a chicken house at a cost property is located in District 13

Two Area Men Enlist In Army

Two area men, one a veteran, enlisted last week for three years Army service, according to M/Sgt. Wesley C. Hartley, recruiter in charge of the local Army recruiting station.

William A. Jackson, 22, Shanks, W. Va., son of Mr. and Mrs. Hayward S. Jackson, re-enlisted after three years service with the Army Medical Corps. He graduated from Romney High School in 1954.

Robert Lee Richardson, 17, of 205 South Lee Street, son of Mrs. Irene Allen, enlisted for three years in the Army Missile Field. He attended Allegany High School.

It will be one story and constructed of brick. The property is located in District 13

Police Check Several Thefts

City police are checking out several thefts which have been reported over the weekend.

A small transistor pocket radio was reported stolen Friday from Syckes Music Store on Baltimore Street. The radio, green in color, has a value of $49.95.

Jack Miller of 414 Park Street reported a $100 Polaroid camera was stolen sometime over the weekend from his room.

W. P. Price, 328 Cumberland Street, reported the hub caps were taken from his automobile parked on Canal Street sometime before midnight Sunday.

The human body contains enough phosphorus to make about two thousand matches.

You shouldn't worry about saying a few words before an audience.

Secrets Of Charm by John Robert Powers

How To Stand Up And Speak Your Piece

Most women have more dread of the appearance they make than of the way they sound before an audience. Fear of looking awkward brings self-consciousness, rather than worry about what to say. Club officers tell me that very capable members turn down responsibilities they'd take on otherwise because they feel that they can't make reports or discuss plans from the platform.

Take that club job and work away at it. The knowledge and enthusiasm that builds fast with your interest is the best of all chasers—away of self-consciousness—when you finally get up to speak your piece you think of your subject rather than about yourself. And there's another way to improve the way you look to an audience and the way you feel before it. Learn to stand gracefully. When you know you do, you'll find new ease in the limelight.

Start with one warning glimpse of yourself in a mirror in a flat-footed, head-on stance, arms dangling. This is exactly the wrong way to stand, even with a straight back and well-poised head. Unlock those knees, flex them slightly and let them almost touch, in position so that one foot points straight ahead, and the other, just behind it, is at an easy angle. Watch as you turn your hips slightly; they will turn naturally when this pose is comfortable.

Then, take paper to represent notes, in one hand. Hold the other arm away from your body with the elbow bent a little, and the hand, fingers curling, just behind and touching your hip. Practice consulting the notes without too much head dipping. Next, try poses without notes—drop the arms, one in front and one in back of your hips in the same manner, never flattening the upper arms, but relaxing the fingers. Then hold one relaxed hand lightly with the other, first in front, then behind you just below, not above, the waist.

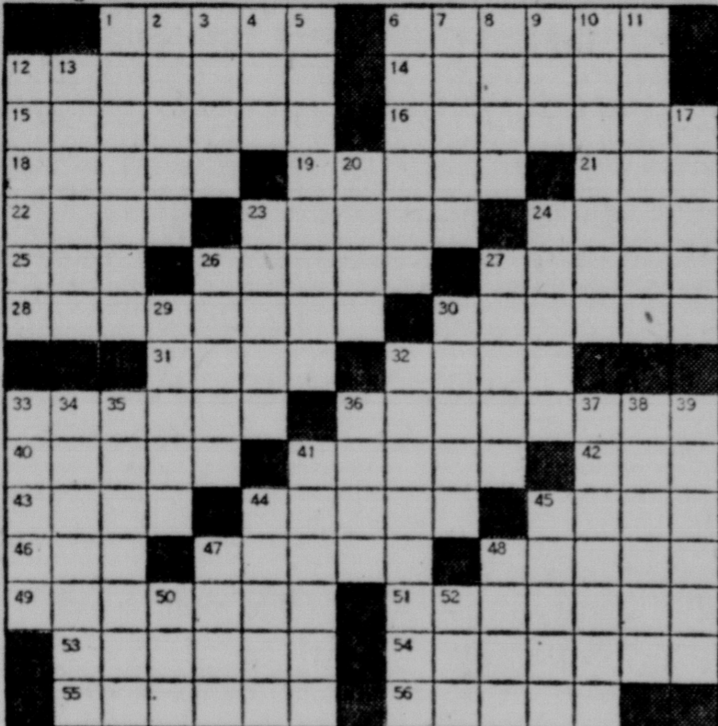

Stand quietly, but move when it seems natural from one of these poses to another. And if you practice enough before a mirror and in everyday circumstances, you'll be comfortable enough to make a gentle and becoming gesture or two to emphasize your words.

Make sure, too, that your voice is everything that you hope it is. For breath control and voice improvement, send in a stamped, return envelope to this column, c/o this paper and ask for "Your Most Attractive Voice."

Stock Market Advances To New High For Year

NEW YORK—The Stock Market moved ahead moderately on a broad front Monday, reaching a new high for 1958.

Trading was brisk, with 2,550,000 shares changing hands compared with 2,700,000 Friday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 80 cents to $165.80 to exceed the previous high of $165.00 first reached Feb. 4 and equaled Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.41 to 450.72, still below the '58 peak of 458.65. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .22 to 42.93 to a new summit for the year.

The market's rise capped a two-week recovery from a point near the year's lows and was made in the face of continued poor first quarter earnings reports by big corporations.

Rails, continuing to benefit from expectations of help from the federal government, made the biggest rise on average. The rail component in the AP stock average advanced $1.50 to a new high for the year. The industrials rose $1.00 and the utilities were unchanged.

All 15 most active stocks showed plus signs.

Of 1,191 issues traded, 618 rose and 294 fell. The number of new highs for the year expanded to 156 while new lows totaled 9.

West muffed an opportunity to set declarer today when he mis-handled an interesting defensive situation involving the technique for obtaining ruffs.

The bidding was competitive and South's free bid of three hearts was made in an effort to reach game if his partner had a maximum raise. However, North had only eight points and was forced to decline the invitation.

West opened his singleton queen of diamonds. Dummy covered with the king. East won with the ace and returned the ten. Since East hoped that partner would ruff the return, he attempted in some manner to get across the information that he had a quick entry in spades so that he could give partner another ruff. The return of his highest remaining diamond, the ten, suggests that his entry is in the higher ranking suit, spades. Had East's ace been in clubs his proper return would have been the five of diamonds, his lowest card in that suit.

West ruffed the return lead, and, in compliance with partner's request, returned a spade. East won with the ace and returned

Court Bailiff Sworn In Here

John Brennenman, 124 Wilmont Avenue, was sworn in yesterday as bailiff in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden administered the oath of office. Brennenman is a retired Amcelle Plant worker and had been an employee of the Celanese Corporation of America for 32 years until two years ago.

Brennenman replaces Peter Berry, city, who died last week. Sidney H. Storer Sr. will remain as jury bailiff.

One of the few places in America where dates are grown commercially is in Phoenix, capital of Arizona's Valley of the Sun resort region.

Wheat Helps Solve The Farm Problem

Exporters expect another good year for wheat, despite Canadian protests and stiffer competition for world markets.

During the 1956-57 crop year 549 million bushels were cleared for export. The Department of Agriculture set a goal of 400 million bushels for the 1957-58 year. Grave doubts were expressed that this goal would even be approached, much let met. Now there is hope the goal may be exceeded.

Agreement for sales have been reached beyond expectations. Turkey wants 250,000 metric tons. Other agreements have been signed with Pakistan, Greece, Israel and Yugoslavia. Negotiations are under way with India. Importing nations elsewhere are increasing their takings, reflecting short crops in the exporting nations of Argentina and Australia.

During the last six months of 1957 the U. S. exported 196 million bushels, down 21 per cent from the comparable period of the previous crop year. During the current six months it is expected that the export of wheat will more than double that of the past six months.

While these are not really sales, they are a valuable contribution to solution of the farm problem. The wheat goes abroad for native currency. The price is considerably below prices paid by the government for the wheat. But such "sales" reduce the surplus and promise an earlier end of distress wheat.

An extension of the law that permits these transactions is being asked and doubtless will be granted. But when the time comes that wheat can stand on its own feet in the market places, the government will retire from the scene as an exporter and taxpayers will be relieved of the load of losses taken in such deals.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

"The Naked God"

Howard Fast has had a long career as a member of the Communist Party and as a writer. The two careers were intertwined as ideas and actions are in all human beings. He has now left the Communist Party in anger, in bitterness, in a mood of triumph over the forces that shackled him for so many years.

He has written a book, "The Naked God," which has been reviewed so diversely by different professional book reviewers, that I, an anti-Communist, desire to give what I hope will be regarded as an impartial view of this extremely important human document.

Fast makes no effort to carry forward his personal problem by literary forensics. He tells a simple story of a youth who wants justice and goes the wrong way about finding it. To expect more than this admission of error in the first full statement of the case is to expect too much.

Men do not leave causes to which they have devoted their lives without a degree of regret, of shame, even of uncertainty. Over the years, it may develop that Howard Fast does the final job, probably in a novel, of exposing shabbiness of the movement to which he gave his talents and his years. Certainly, one who believes that the writer must express himself at any cost, because that is his genius and his gift from God, cannot lie fallow because of a disappointment, no matter how deep.

At a point, remote, it is true, Fast's life and mine paralleled, although years apart. Practically children, we both worked after school hours in a public library in Harlem, stacking books on shelves. He got 25 cents an hour; my wage came to $2.50 a week. He seems to complain at the youth he lost; but we both lived among books and read everything there was to read. We probably worked in the same branch library, but he is younger than I am.

Most of us lived in comparative poverty in those environs but few of us overthrew the God of our fathers and accepted Communism as a way of life. One cannot read Fast's book, "The Naked God," without feeling that the initial forces that bring young people into this and similar movements of protest are different from what they believe them to be. Often, it is accidental; often it is loneliness, the eternal search for friends; often it is a revolt from the ugliness of living in foul-smelling, noisy tenements. Who can ever know what sparks revolt against an environment, out of which one can grow into a better life without becoming enslaved to a cause that is narrow, stultifying, hateful, and from which, when he reaches full maturity he has to rebel all over again—and to rebel when it is so much harder, particularly as one develops a vested interest in error.

Howard Fast has written an enormously significant book which will have a profound influence on Communists and sincere fellow-travellers. Nothing can influence the opportunists and time-servers, those who have found in their associations with Russia not only an opportunity to strut their so-called progressive and liberal attitudes, but also, in some instances, to earn a wayward dollar, directly or indirectly, through their Russian associations. It is a better analysis of inside the party techniques than I have yet seen. Whittaker Chambers, in "Witness," deals more with the espionage characteristics of Communist associations, more with the betrayal of the United States. Fast deals with the degradation of a man, with his stultification intellectually and spiritually. In the sum total, Fast, who avoids naming names, tells more than most have ever described of the inner core.

Each break of tight human relationships leaves a scar; often a painful scar. All scars are ugly. Fast has scars and his scars show in this book. But he has stated his case and he is, in the freedom of this country, entitled to state it as often and in as many different ways as he can. Those who believe that because he once was so abjectly party discipline, he cannot now, in our great troubles, serve the United States valiantly, are without truth or knowledge. Fast can, if he will, serve America faithfully and valuably for the rest of his years.

'Who You Gonna Believe — Me Or Ike?'

The Ambassador Is Laughing Up His Sleeve

WASHINGTON

By Joseph Alsop

The Soviet Ambassador to Paris, Sergei Alexandrovich Vinogradov, must be smiling even more broadly than usual at this moment. But then he smiles at the time, carefully directing his broadest beams at members of the more extreme French-wing groups in business and politics.

The Vinogradov themes that are so beamingly expounded are both simple and appealing. The Soviet Union is France's friend. The Soviet Union recognizes and approves France's historic position in North Africa. The United States, in contrast, is France's secret enemy. The United States hankers to get possession of the oil of the Sahara, and to replace France in North Africa. In fact, the whole difficulty in Algeria is nothing but an American plot.

Why, then, does not France break her alliance with the United States, seek Soviet support in the North African situation and on other matters, and return to the old link with Russia that existed in the past?

Even before this reporter left Paris, Ambassador Vinogradov had had enough success with this line of talk to produce a minor scandal. (He was invited to a shooting party by the bearer of one of France's great old names. This had outraged some of the other bearers of great old names, who are not only anti-Bolshevik but often still pro-Romanov.) Since then, Vinogradov's beaming expositions of Soviet loveliness and American villainy have found a measureably wider audience as appeared in the defeat of the Gaillard government on the Tunisian issue with its attendant storm of anti-American emotion. It would be very wrong, of course, to explain this anti-

American storm altogether away, as just another of those Soviet "propaganda victories" that Secretary of State John Foster Dulles so sadly complains about. At the climax of the Indo-Chinese tragedy, there was another anti-American storm of the same sort, without any Soviet intervention, but with all the same charges that greedy America was plotting to steal France's birthright.

In politics, alas, the famous "French logic" too often tends to consist of two propositions. The first proposition is that France not only can but must have her cake and eat it too. And the second proposition, which is trotted out when proposition number one does not work, is that France has been betrayed — by her friends and allies, naturally, and not by her enemies or her own weaknesses.

The effort to have the cake and eat it too has been glaringly apparent from the beginning of the Tunisian crisis. Shortly before the crisis began, the French Chief of General Staff, General Paul Ely, officially informed the French government that the reconquest of Tunisia would cost four hundred billion francs a year and would require national mobilization. The price was thought to be too high by everyone, including the Right-wing parliamentary leaders who very much wanted to reconquer Tunisia.

Even today, even among the most extreme French Right-wingers, the price of a reconquest of Tunisia is still thought to be too high. But that prevents no one from demanding the practical fruits of a reconquest of Tunisia with extreme insistence and indignation, and when the American government fails to back these demands to the hilt, the American government is violently blamed.

So much being said, however, it has to be admitted that Ambassador Vinogradov's smiling efforts have made immense progress in the last week, and are due to make more progress in the time ahead. The only Soviet purpose, of course, is to separate France from the Western Alliance by the lever of the North African problem, which most naturally excites the deepest national emotions. In Britain, the same pattern appears. But in Britain the Soviet appeal is to the Left rather than the Right, and the lever being used is the strong (and again natural) tide of British emotion on the issue of nuclear disarmament.

The fact now has to be faced, moreover, that the break-up of the Western Alliance is an entirely possible event, which may even occur at a rather early date. Any sensible man can see that the Western nations will hang separately if they do not hang together. But after years of feeble leadership in all three of the great nations of the West, hanging together is getting more and more difficult, and hanging separately is becoming more and more probable.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

When the Prexola said the Kruscher was pulling a gimmick he was reaching into the barrel for happy talk.

A gimmick means the difference. And gives the gimmicker a well-honed edge.

You have as much chance against a gimmicked roulette sprocket as a sardine in a can factory. The wheel can be gimmicked with the foot or the belly squeeze or both.

The word stems from gimcrack which meant an all-round grifter. The jack-of-all capers could give you cards and spades and beat you with his feather-edged shuffle.

We don't know how the Prexy got hold of the word but he didn't pronounce it right. The accent is from the side of the mouth.

It also includes low-level wiring of the spinning bingo platter. A sucker could get electrocuted betting the wrong number.

The swinging door kid entertained Runyon and me clipping the marks down at Miami. He could make the pill jump like the winner of the Grand National.

Treating Hyperthyroidism In Children

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Many children go through periods when they are nervous, irritable, and fatigued; they lose weight and have a poor appetite. Parents are concerned, more so when relatives and friends remark how jumpy, pale, and thin Johnny is.

The physician must do a complete examination to evaluate these symptoms. The discrepancy in weight can be explained because variations occur on different scales, at different times of the day, and whether clothing is worn.

But not all cases of nervousness and weight loss are this simple. For example, Susan, 3½ years old, was the healthiest child on the block until five months ago. She became jittery and cranky, and tired so easily that she played less and rested more. Despite decreased activity and a voracious appetite, she lost 6 pounds.

Further questioning of the mother revealed that the child perspired profusely and could not stand a blanket over her at night. She had prominent eyeballs and a fine tremor of the fingers and hands. The thyroid was twice its normal size and overactivity of the gland was suspected. Tests for thyrotoxicosis showed that Susan's trouble stemmed from increased production of the thyroid hormone.

In the past, these youngsters were given iodine drops and the gland was removed 10 days to two weeks later. Nowadays, considerable reliance is placed upon the new anti-thyroid medications.

If the child can be carried safely through puberty, surgery rarely is necessary. The situation requires close cooperation between the little patient, the physician, and the laboratory, especially during the first few months of treatment.

SURGERY IN ANGINA

F. L. writes: What is the surgical procedure that is done on occasion for angina pectoris?

REPLY

In angina pectoris, the circulation to the heart muscle is deficient because the coronary arteries are narrowed and thickened. Several operations have been devised to improve circulation. The most popular is a simple procedure devised by Dr. C. S. Beck of Cleveland. The outer surface of the heart is irritated to such an extent that it sticks, or becomes adherent to the inner surface of the sac surrounding the heart. These adhesions form a bridge through which a new source of blood reaches the cardiac muscle to make up for the deficit caused by hardening of the arteries.

GRATING JAW

M. M. writes: Why do I feel a grating and snapping sensation upon opening my mouth wide?

REPLY

When the hinge of the jaw grates on movement, the cause may be arthritis or an impinger bite (malocclusion). Consult your physician and dentist for diagnosis and treatment.

Wall Street Lawyers Pressure Justice Department About Gas

By Drew Pearson

Prediction: This time new Attorney General Rogers will not yield to big utility pressure.

Ike's Phone Calls

Inside story can now be told how President Eisenhower got on the telephone to Congressional leaders in a last-minute attempt to block the highway bill before it was sent to the White House for his reluctant signature.

Before the final House vote, Ike phoned Illinois Congressman Les Arends, the Republican whip, and urged him to send the bill back to the Public Works Committee for further study.

The President explained that he wanted better highways but objected to financing them out of current cash. He thought a highway fund should be raised first by taxing tires and gasoline. He also didn't like the Democrats' plan to require the states to pay only one-third of the highway cost. He preferred a fifty-fifty arrangement.

Arends promised to sidetrack the bill if possible and hastily put through a long-distance call to Congressman Harry McGregor, top Republican on the Public Works Committee, who had gone home to West Lafayette, O., ahead of the Easter vacation. Arends asked McGregor to come back to Washington to help maneuver the highway bill back into committee.

Back in Washington, McGregor also received a phone call from Ike. First assistant President Sherman Adams phoned and asked McGregor to remain in his office for 30 minutes to await a call from the President.

When Ike got on the phone, he repeated the same arguments that he had given to Arends against the Democrats' highway bill.

McGregor, who has been a battler for better highways, gave in to the President's personal plea and tried to sidetrack the bill. In the end, however, the Democrats pushed through their bill and the President reluctantly signed it.

NOTE — It was Secretary of Commerce Sinclair Weeks who persuaded Ike to intervene personally in an attempt to block the highway bill. Weeks was opposed to the financing provisions and the ban against billboards. Under Weeks' prompting, Ike told Congressional leaders privately that he would never again sign a bill requiring the states to raise only one-third of the revenue.

Nixon-Go-Round

Vice President Nixon's private comments about American foreign policy are almost as critical as the Democrats' public comments. Nixon admits America has slipped in world leadership, blames it upon Secretary of State Dulles. Nixon complains that Dulles lacks imagination, is unwilling to take bold diplomatic gambles. . . . The Vice President claims Dulles may be more willing to meet Russia half-way now that Harold Stassen is no longer disarmament negotiator.

Dulles disliked Stassen so intensely, Nixon says, that the Secretary opposed Stassen's ideas for purely personal reasons. . . . Nixon believes the main Communist threat today is aimed at undermining the neutral nations and our Latin American neighbors. . . . The Vice President blames the Indonesian revolt upon political immaturity. He declares privately that Indonesia was not fit for self-government. . . . After listening to Nixon's snap conclusions about the countries he has visited, experts describe his reactions as those of a "superficial sight-seer." . . . Nixon is so confident of a summit meeting that he is holding up personal plans for a trip abroad.

The Brussels Fair

By Bob Considine

BRUSSELS, April 21 — (INS) —James A. Farley, who deprived some poor elephant of his memory the day he was born, was inspecting the handsome, 1,100-seat theatre in the American exhibit at the World's Fair the other day when he was approached by U. S. Consul General Burton Chadbourne, stationed at Hamburg.

"You don't know me, Mr. Farley," Chadbourne said after giving his name, "but . . ."

"Just a minute," Jim said furrowing his brow. "I issued a marriage license to your parents thirty years ago when I was town clerk of Stony Point, New York. Your mother's name was Elma Rhinehart."

"That's what I wanted to tell you," Chadbourne marvelled, then after a pause added: "But wasn't it more than thirty years ago?"

Jim thought a bit. "Yes, I guess it was. I was town clerk from 1912 to 1920."

"Thanks," said the Consul General. "You see, I am thirty two." The biggest fable yet manufactured at the Brussels Fair is that you can buy a slab of caviar at the restaurant in the Russian pavilion for six Belgian francs—12 cents. We tried it last night and the price is 180 Belgian francs—or $3.60.

Those boys will get back their $50,000,000 fair investment by the end of the month.

I think Congress should strike some sort of medal for Edward D. Stone, the architect of the American pavilion. The place and its surrounding structures are so beautiful people are already commenting on what a crying shame it will be to tear the exhibit down in October. A lot of what is inside the pavilion, especially the avant garde art and sculpture will make some visiting Americans angry. But it is not likely that they or world's fairs to come will ever forget Stone's masterpiece.

A waiter at the Czechoslovakian pavilion, which has just about the best food at the fair, looked up to us the other night, sidled around to see if the head waiter was watching or listening, and whispered:

"My brother has a restaurant in your Wisconsin state."

"Well," we said, "where in Wisconsin?"

He took another look around then said: "Little Bohemia, Wisconsin, it is a resort. Your Mister Dillinger lived there," he explained not without a note of pride.

Just talked to a distinguished Austrian princess who attended the ball King Badouin gave at the Royal Palace Saturday night for 6,500 members of Europe's fading royalty, foreign diplomats and fair brass. We asked her to describe the splendid affair, from which reporters naturally were barred.

"A rat race," the princess said, flicking an ash from her cigar.

It is officially safe now to visit the Brussels Fair. The British sausage has been banned. Belgian food laws take the sticky view that a sausage should be fundamentally meat. This naturally ruled the British hotdog off the course. Anglophiles are furious. Anglophobes say good riddance. Epicures agree.

International Business Machines have a stupifying gizmo in operation in the company exhibits. Ask the operator to have it name the principal historic facts and events for any of the past 1,962 years and within less than a second it will respond on a highspeed electric typewriter in any of these pre-selected languages, English, French, Dutch, German, Italian, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, Swedish and Interlingua, an international composite tongue. Ask for "1786" for example and the machine instantly writes, "Mozart composed his first opera at the age of 11. Christian the 7th became King of Denmark. . . ."

The machine is known to other electric brains as IBM's 305 Ramac but those who have only a nodding acquaintance call it "random access memory accounting and controls," which seems the least it is due.

Jury Acquits Hub City Man In Assault Case

Kneisley Freed In Second Trial

William C. Kneisley, Jr., 23, of Hagerstown, was found not guilty of assault with intent to rape a married woman last August 7 during a trial held yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The all-male jury deliberated about 45 minutes before reaching a verdict. Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris heard the case which was removed from Washington County.

Back in February a jury in the local court was unable to reach an agreement in the Kneisley case.

The accused man took the stand in his own defense yesterday afternoon and told the court that he never knew the woman nor was he ever in her house.

Admitted Drinking

He admitted that he had been drinking the night before the alleged assault and that he had gotten to his home about 1:30 a. m. on August 7.

The woman yesterday morning testified that she was awakened by a noise about 2:30 or 3 a. m. and saw a man standing in the bedroom doorway with a lighted match.

Her eight-year-old daughter and six-year-old son were asleep in the second bedroom. The woman said she asked the man how he got into the apartment and he said through the door. After telling the man to get out of her house, she said he jumped onto the bed and tore off her clothes and attempted to assault her.

The woman said she cried out and Kneisley choked her. The noise awakened the woman's daughter who came to the bedroom and switched on the light.

At this point, the woman testified, the man was startled by the light and she was able to break free. She said she ran from the bedroom. Meanwhile a neighbor who heard the commotion came into the house and turned on the light.

Kneisley was still in the apartment, she said and a few minutes later ran past them and fled. Kneisley's father took the stand yesterday and testified his son had come home about 2 a. m. on August 7.

Saw Him Come Home

Mrs. Grace A. Gordon, a next-door neighbor of the Kneisleys testified that she saw the accused man coming through the backyard of his home about 1:45 a. m. that day.

Kneisley explained to the court that he had been taken into custody by Hagerstown police who testified in the case.

When the verdict of the jury was given in the court room a number of spectators gave a round of applause and order had to be restored.

In his opening statement to the

Frostburg Man Gets 30 Days In County Jail

A 22-year-old Frostburg man yesterday was sentenced to 30 days in Allegany County Jail for contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Eckhart girl.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson imposed the sentence on John William Rae, 237 Center Street, following a hearing in Juvenile Court yesterday.

Rae was arrested by State Police Sgt. William F. Baker, who said last Friday the man assaulted the girl as she was walking home through a woodland short cut from school.

The man ran up behind the girl, grabbed her and carried her into the underbrush, Sgt. Baker stated, wanted her to take a drink with him and generally made improper suggestions to her.

The girl argued and fought the man, Sgt. Baker said, and finally began screaming. Rae then slapped her and ran. She was unharmed except for some bruises and scratches from the underbrush, he added.

In another Juvenile Court case yesterday Magistrate Anderson continued the probation period for a 14-year-old boy who was charged with violation of his parole. The lad has been guilty of truancy, Magistrate Anderson said, and recently ran away from his foster home.

Magistrate Anderson placed the boy in the custody of his father and told the boy to be of general good behavior.

W. H. CULLEN

Canadian Diplomat Speaks Here

Will Address Kiwanis Club

William H. Cullen, administrative officer of the Canadian Embassy in Washington, will help the Cumberland Kiwanis Club observe United States-Canada Good Will Week.

Mr. Cullen, who has 31 years of service in the Canadian Department of External Affairs, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at 12:15 p. m. Thursday at Central YMCA.

Virtually all of the 4,500 communities in the United States and Canada with Kiwanis clubs are participating in the observance of the week of April 27 at the 37th annual U. S. - Canada Good Will Week.

The observance marks the 141st anniversary of the Rush-Bagot Treaty which was concluded by an exchange of notes at Washington on April 28-29, 1817. This document virtually demilitarized the boundary between the U. S. and Canada by calling for a limitation of Naval vessels on the waterways between the countries and instructing those which were deemed necessary to interfere in no way with the peaceful passage of merchantmen of either country.

This agreement can be terminated by a simple six months notice on the part of either signer. It is this document which has made possible the untortured character of the 3,000-mile U. S. - Canadian border. There are 30 Kiwanis-sponsored "peace markers" spotted along the border.

A native of Ottawa, the Canadian capital, Mr. Cullen has served in the Canadian delegation to the United Nations. He has been the administrative officer in Washington since 1952. He is married and the father of two daughters.

Domestic Workers Social Security Reports Are Due

Social Security reports on domestic workers for the first quarter 1958 are due on or before April 30, according to S. Leigh Wolfe, manager of the Cumberland Social Security office.

Mr. Wolfe stated that under present law most domestic employees, such as gardeners, cooks, maids and housekeepers are covered under Social Security. Employees of these and other household workers must report the cash wages paid and pay the Social Security tax of 4 1/2 percent of the employee's wages. In cases where the domestic employee had earned less than $50 cash in the first quarter, the employer does not have to make any report.

The form used in making the return on household employees may be obtained at the office of the Director of Internal Revenue. Mr. Wolfe added that pamphlets which explain the coverage provisions for domestic employment are free at the Social Security office.

Allegany County's Dog Law Protects Canines As Well As General Public

This is the first in a series of stories about the much-discussed County Dog Law, the facts leading up to it, and the progress being made since its adoption.

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT News Staff Writer

On September 27, 1957, the County Commissioners of Allegany County adopted a resolution which has come to be known as "The County Dog Law."

This resolution in brief provides for the licensing of all dogs in the county, and for the appointment of two dog wardens to enforce the law, issue licenses and care for stray, and injured canines.

Actually, the County Commissioners have merely acted upon a state law (Chapter 723 of the Acts of the Maryland General Assembly of 1957) which empowered county commissioners to license dogs and to appoint dog wardens to enforce rules set up by the county board.

This law and the subsequent resolution came about because many private citizens were interested in the protection of animals and the protection of the

SRC Faces Sharp Drop In Revenue

Interstate Funds Will Offset Loss

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission is going to have about $6,390,000 less State revenue to work with this year than it planned on a few months ago. Chairman Robert Bonnell said Monday.

But he added that the estimated $6,800,000 Maryland will get in federal aid under emergency provisions of the new highway bill will more than offset the loss.

Revenues Are Down

The slowed down rate of car buying during the current recession will lop off an estimated one million dollars in 1958 revenue the SRC anticipated, Bonnell said. The commission counted on 10 1/2 million dollars from the titling tax but new and used car purchases are running behind earlier estimates.

In 1957 the State took in $10,302,000 from this source.

The gas tax was to bring in an estimated $4.1 million during 1958 but it is running about $600,000 behind that pace. Part of that reason, Bonnell explained, was due to two bad winter storms when many motorists left their cars idle for several days.

Storm costs put a $600,000 knock into the SRC budget in unexpected costs for ice and snow removal.

Pensions Come Out

The commission also is having to pay $700,000 in employees' pension costs out of its special funds instead of from the general fund as in the past. The Legislature made the change.

Commission funds are being used to foot the bill for $215,000 in capital funds, and the 40 hour week and 10 per cent pay increase for hourly paid employees is costing another $600,000 in the next fiscal year and $175,000 for the last quarter of the current one.

The SRC also is lacking some 2 1/2 million dollars it counted on in federal money which the counties and cities are using instead by stepping up their program of primary, secondary and urban road building and improvement. That money would otherwise go into State road funds.

Suit Filed By SRC Here

The State Roads Commission has filed a condemnation suit in Allegany County Circuit Court seeking land for improvement work on Maryland State Route 26 from U. S. Route 40 to Corriandale.

Defendants in the case are Chester W. Ayers and his wife, Helen D. Ayers, of 705 St. Mary's Avenue, fee owners and the Sun Oil Company, leasee.

The SRC has deposited two checks totaling $37,140 with the clerk of the court. A court order was signed by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris that summons be issued for the defendants commanding them to answer the petition of the SRC.

Two deeds involving local property were filed yesterday in the land records office of the court house. The property was sold to the State of Maryland for use by the SRC.

John C. Rodenhauer and his wife, Josephine Rodenhauer sold property located on the northwest side of Ann Street (now Central Avenue.)

In the other transaction, land on the southwest corner of Virginia Avenue and Laing Avenue was deeded to the SRC by Elizabeth B. Landis and her husband, Eugene C. Landis, John A. Hammersmith, widow, William F. Hammersmith and his wife, Edith Hammersmith, Elizabeth E. Catherman and her husband, Charles S. Catherman Jr.

Also Mary R. McNally, widow, of Staten Island, N. Y., all individually, Elizabeth B. Landis, John A. Hammersmith and Mary R. McNally, as trustees.

Endorsements Are Made By Brotherhood

Incumbent Delegates, "Harmony" Backed

All incumbent candidates for the House of Delegates from Allegany County have been endorsed by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers.

D. L. Adams, Baltimore, chairman of the Brotherhood's State Legislative Board, announced the political endorsements here yesterday.

For the House of Delegates, the Brotherhood has endorsed Thomas N. Berry, Cumberland; Noel Speir Cook, Frostburg; Fred B. Driscoll, Cumberland; Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage, and David J. Williams, Barton, all incumbents and all Republican.

Estel C. Kelley, Cumberland, was endorsed to fill out the House of Delegates slate in the Republican primary election May 20.

Charles M. See was endorsed for reelection to the Maryland Senate.

The Brotherhood, Mr. Adams said, has nothing against Del. George R. Hughes Jr., who will oppose Senator See in the primary and has a good record, but feels it must continue support for Sen. See in recognition of his years of faithful service.

On the state level, the Brotherhood has endorsed members of the "Harmony Slate" which includes Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro Jr., for senator; J. Millard Tawes, governor; Atty. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert for reelection, and Louis L. Goldstein for Comptroller.

The Brotherhood, Mr. Adams said, will make no endorsement in the First and Sixth Congressional District primary contests. Endorsed for other contests were Daniel B. Brewster, D-Ba. County, Second; Edward A. Garmatz, D-Ba., Third; George H. Fallon, D-Ba., Fourth; Richard E. Lankford, D-Ba., Fifth, and Samuel N. Friedel, D-Ba., Seventh District.

Fire Damages Local Garage

A fire which broke out in the ceiling of the Charles Gurley garage, 129 North Mechanic Street, was quickly brought under control after being spotted by an alert passerby.

Central Fire Company, assisted by West Side Fire Company, answered the 9:27 p. m. telephone alarm from the unknown passerby who spotted smoke coming from the flat roof of the building.

Firemen chopped their way through the ceiling which was ablaze when they arrived and extinguished the flames. They said the fire apparently started from a short circuit in a light in the ceiling.

Attendants at the garage, notified also by the person who discovered the fire, quickly emptied the garage of eight or 10 automobiles and two rigger trucks which were housed there. None of the vehicles were damaged.

Mr. Gurley, owner of the garage, said last night that several thousands of dollars worth of auto parts and equipment was stored in the upstairs part of the building. No estimate of the damage to the building or equipment could be made last night.

Traffic on North Mechanic Street was rerouted over the Market Street bridge by police while the fire companies worked.

Plan To Visit

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson and Probation Officer John H. Jeffries of Juvenile Court here will visit Maryland training schools near Baltimore where area minors are committed. They plan to make the visitations Friday and Saturday.

Secretaries Are Honored

Mayor Roy W. Eves presents the city's Secretaries Week proclamation to Mrs. Reba Whitehair, president of the National Secretaries Association, as Miss Ellen Newnam, chairman of Secretaries Week looks on. Wednesday has been proclaimed as Secretaries Day in Cumberland to recognize their contribution to commerce, industry and government.

DR. HENRY FREIMUTH

Toxicologist Will Address Chemical Unit

Dr. Freimuth To Be Guest Speaker

Dr. Henry C. Freimuth, toxicologist in the office of the Chief Medical Examiner of Maryland, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society here tomorrow.

Mr. Freimuth will discuss "Chemistry and Sudden Death" at the meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The business session will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 p. m.

Dr. Freimuth was born and educated in New York City. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from the College of the City of New York in 1932, his master's degree from New York University in 1933, and his Ph. D. also from N.Y.U. in 1938.

He has had a varied and interesting career as both teacher and chemist. His teaching assignments include those at New York University, Loyola College of Maryland, the University of Maryland Medical School, and Harvard University Medical School.

He was a visiting lecturer in the Department of Legal Medicine at Harvard from 1944 until 1955, and is currently professional lecturer in chemistry at Loyola College and associate professor of Forensic Toxicology at the University of Maryland Medical School. The latter position has been held since July 1957; from 1949 to 1957 he was assistant professor of legal medicine at the same school. In addition to the foregoing, Dr. Freimuth has served, since the early forties, as an instructor at both the Baltimore City Police Academy and the Maryland State Police Training School.

Aside from his teaching experience, Dr. Freimuth was a special agent analytical chemist for the FBI from 1939 until 1944; and since the latter date, he has held the position of toxicologist, Office of the Chief Medical Examiner, State of Maryland.

Dr. Freimuth holds membership in a number of leading scientific societies, and he has had 33 publications in various journals.

Non-members of the society are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Novak To Lead Discussion Group

Dr. Robert T. Novak, a member of the faculty of Frostburg State Teachers College, will be the leader at a meeting of the Economics Discussion Group of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night.

"Spending and Taxes" will be the subject for the session in the conference room of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Postmaster To Receive Citation

A citation will be presented to Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, in behalf of his efforts and those of his assistants in employing handicapped veterans at the local Post Office.

The presentation will be made tonight during the regular meeting of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, according to Harold Davis, post commander. It will be made by Grafton Lee Brown, Baltimore, director of Federal Employment, US Department of Labor, and Richard Manning, also of Baltimore, state service officer for the Maryland Veterans Commission.

Commander Davis said that the local post office at present employs 12 disabled veterans.

Several resolutions of interest to all legionnaires are to come before the 8 p. m. meeting in the post home, and refreshments will be served following the business session and presentation. Charles Griffith has charge of entertainment.

Shafer Pigeon Wins Flight

"Green Light" from the Lost Loft of Dudley Shafer won the first old bird race of the 1958 series of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club, negotiating the 100 miles from West Union, W. Va., to Cumberland in an average speed of 1,413.20 yards per minute Sunday.

Ten flocks with 178 birds competed under favorable conditions with good returns and excellent speed.

Other pigeons in the top 10 were "Twenty One," also from Lost Loft, 1,411 yards per minute; "741" from the Gilmore Loft of A. A. Ambrose, 1,409.17 yards per minute; "2601" also from the Gilmore Loft, 1,408.79 yards per minute; "Big Joe" from Pearl Alley Loft of J. H. Sweitzer, 1,403.90 yards per minute; "Red Pie" from MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith, 1,402.46 yards per minute; "Little Joe" from Pearl Alley Loft, 1,400.04 yards per minute; "Linda" from the MacArthur Loft, 1,398.14 yards per minute; "Dark Eyes" from Galla Loft of Charles Buskirk, 1,397.69 yards per minute, and "Sylvia" from the Town View Loft of Galen Beeman, 1,395.28 yards per minute.

The next race also will be a 100-mile event from West Union.

Multi-Colored Fire Alarm Running Chart Is Prepared

A multi-colored fire alarm running chart recently completed by firemen of South End Station pinpoints the location of a fire when an alarm box is pulled anywhere in the city.

Installed in the station's apparatus room, the chart is floodlighted at night and the various box numbers and street locations painted on metal panels can be identified from a distance of about 30 feet.

Some 27 alarm calls answered by South End are printed red on white, while West Side calls are blue on black, Central, pink on black, and East side, gray on black. The individual panels are attached to a plywood board which measures six by three feet.

Fire Chief Virgil A. Parker said the board was built under the supervision of Captain Francis Wallace, officer-in-charge of the station. A similar board was installed sometime ago at West Side station.

When a box alarm comes in, Chief Parker said, firemen get

Hartman To Be Business Agent Of Clerks Union

William R. Hartman, Ellerslie, has accepted a full-time position as president and business agent of Local 886, Retail Clerks International Association, AFL-CIO here.

Mr. Hartman has been a member of Cumberland Local 886 for 11 1/2 years and has served as president of the local since 1950. He has been employed at the A&P Super Market on Wine Street for over 11 years and has been a member of the Retail Clerks union here since 1937, with the exception of a short period during World War II.

He joined Retail Clerks Local 639-A in Washington, D. C., where he was employed as assistant manager of a Safeway market. Mr. Hartman has obtained a leave of absence from the A&P Tea Company, where he will return to work if and when his position with the union terminates.

Norman L. Tyrie is secretary-treasurer and business agent of the local, also on a full-time status. He came here from Columbus, Ohio, where he was an organizer for the Retail Clerks District Council.

Local 886 holds contracts with some 20 food and clothing stores in Cumberland and the nearby West Virginia area.

The union said negotiations are now under way with Acme Markets, Schwarzenbach and Son and Albert's Super Market.

EASTER SEAL LUCKY BUCKS NEEDED NOW

Another 79 Lucky Bucks were received yesterday at headquarters of the Easter Seal drive in the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.

The total contributed so far this year for funds to aid handicapped is up to $9,204.

As 23,000 residents received seals, there are still more who could mail in their dollar to help the league meet its goal of $12,000.

LaVale Firemen To Host County Convention

Plan Festival Early In June

LaVale Volunteer Fire Company, which is observing its 25th anniversary this year, will be host to the 46th annual Allegany-Garrett Firemen's Association convention on June 4.

The convention will be held in conjunction with the annual festival of the LaVale Firemen, scheduled for the week of June 2-7, inclusive.

This is the first time the LaVale Company has been host to a county convention, except during the war years when conventions were limited to short meetings, with no entertainment or festivity.

Cromwell C. Zembower is general chairman for the conclave and is being assisted by a committee including James Loar, Edward Young and A. G. Youngblood, representing the firemen, and Mrs. Gladys Burkey, Mrs. Elva Schell and Mrs. Leona McClellan from the firemen's auxiliary.

The week of festivity will include entertainment, carnival rides and attractions and a mammoth street parade the night of the convention. Mr. Zembower said that the firemen and auxiliary expect to entertain 200 official delegates in addition to several thousand area firemen, auxiliary members and interested people.

The LaVale Company has been a member of the association for the past 24 years. The company was organized and chartered February 28, 1933, but did not affiliate with the association until the following year.

Larceny Count To Be Faced By Area Man

Equipment Taken From Local Store

A 24-year-old Frostburg man who police say is involved in the theft of more than $1,000 in pistols, rifles and fishing equipment from a downtown department store will be charged with grand larceny, James S. Getty, state's attorney, said last night.

Richard Harris McClintock, 12 Grant Street, was arrested Friday night and is being held in City Jail pending a preliminary hearing.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said yesterday that McClintock admitted the thefts under questioning, saying he did not remember just how much equipment was involved.

Mr. Lilya said McClintock, an employee of the sporting goods department of Sears Roebuck Company, had systematically been taking the merchandise from the store, placing it outside the building and then removing it from the premises. He then sold the merchandise to various persons at greatly reduced prices, the investigator said.

The thefts covered a period of a little more than a month, McClintock told authorities. Actual value of the items stolen will not be known until a store inventory is made.

The case was developed over the weekend by Detective Kenneth Morrissey, Detective Thomas See and Officer Wilbur E. Shank of the City Police Department.

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn yesterday praised the excellent work of Det. Morrissey and Officer Shank in the case.

Friday night the local detective and officer made dozens of check stops in Frostburg, Eckhart, Cresaptown and along U. S. Route 40 in an effort to locate McClintock.

Saturday and Sunday the local authorities contacted more than a dozen persons to obtain some of the stolen loot.

Already recovered is a .22 calibre pistol, .22 Winchester pump rifle, three Zebco 33 fishing reels, .32 Winchester rifle, a J. C. Higgins casting reel, a Higgins fly rod, a spinning rod, another casting rod, a .22 automatic pistol, a .12 gauge Winchester pump rifle, a Remington Wingmaster pump rifle, a .22 calibre pistol, a canvas fishing reel and two 8 mm. motion picture cameras.

Police said that most people have cooperated thus far, but warned that in the event people fail to return the goods warrants will be issued charging them with receiving stolen goods.

Frank J. O'Neill, 82, Former Coach, Dies

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP)—Frank J. (Buck) O'Neill, well-known college football coach, died in a nursing home here Monday. He was 82.

A member of the football hall of fame, O'Neill retired after having served at Williams College, Colgate University, Syracuse and Columbia.

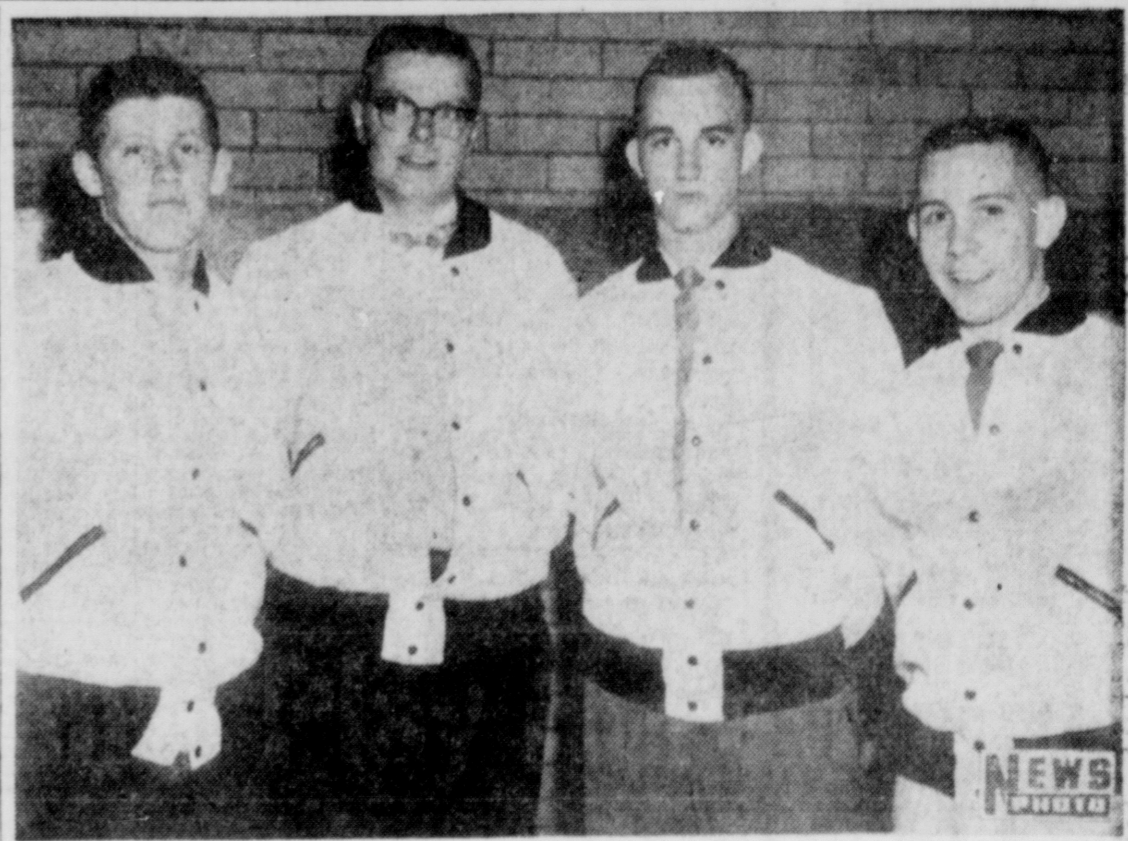

He began his coaching career while a senior at Williams. After graduation in 1902 he assumed coaching chores at Colgate in that season and in 1904 and 1905.

He coached Syracuse football teams in 1906 and 1907 and returned to direct the teams from 1913 to 1915 and 1917 to 1919.

He retired after three seasons at Columbia, where one of his players was Lou Gehrig, who later was to achieve baseball fame with the New York Yankees.

Arrant Bully Cops Feature

Winner Pays $13
In 7th At Laurel

LAUREL, Md., April 21 (AP)—Jacob L. Feldman's Arrant Bully, who was claimed for $10,000 in his previous start, today won the $5,000 Takoma Park Purse at Laurel.

Arrant Bully finished two lengths ahead of Lady Angora. Another half length back was Hit The Road.

Claimed from the William H. Bishop stables six days ago, Arrant Bully came from last place to win today's feature. V.S.O.P., the 4-5 betting favorite, quit in the stretch and finished fourth.

Karl Korte was the winning rider. Arrant Bully paid $13.00, $5.40 and $3.80. Lady Angora returned $12.80 and $7.80 while Hit The Road paid $6.00.

The biggest prize winner of the day was William E. Bridgeforth's Bonus, a two-year-old first time starter. Bonus was a two length winner over Dark Fate in the third race and paid $34.40.

The day's mutuel handle was $925,508.

Lumpe Steps On Ball, Suffers Ankle Sprain

NEW YORK (AP)—Infielder Jerry Lumpe of the New York Yankees severely sprained his left ankle when he stepped on a loose ball Monday and will be out of action for two and a half to three weeks.

The accident occurred during practice before the game with Boston at Yankee Stadium. He hobbled off the field. X-rays taken at Lenox Hill Hospital were negative. He is the third Yankee to be sidelined. Shortstop Tony Kubek is recovering from a pulled muscle in his right leg and outfielder Harry Simpson has a mending right wrist which was broken during an exhibition game April 7 at Greenville, S.C.

Atomic Lectures
OSLO (AP)—Norway's short-wave radio network will broadcast three lectures by Dr. Albert Schweitzer on the theme "Peace or Atomic War."
The lectures will be carried April 28, 29 and 30. Their titles are "Stop Nuclear Weapons Tests," "Renounce Atomic Weapons" and "Summit Negotiations."

Jordan Faces Famine
AMMAN (AP)—An economic expert says Jordan is faced with a serious famine threat and should appeal to the United States for help.
In a published report, Dr. Rajayee Khadra predicted the famine would come this summer in the wake of Jordan's worst drought in 20 years.

You shouldn't worry about saying a few words before an audience.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

How To Stand Up And Speak Your Piece

Most women have more dread of the appearance they make than of the way they sound before an audience. Fear of looking awkward brings self-consciousness, rather than worry about what to say. Club officers tell me that very capable members turn down responsibilities they'd take on otherwise because they feel that they can't make reports or discuss plans from the platform.

Take that club job and work away at it. The knowledge and enthusiasm that builds fast with your interest is the best of all chasers—away of self-consciousness—when you finally get up to speak your piece you think of your subject rather than about yourself. And there's another way to improve the way you look to an audience and the way you feel before it. Learn to stand gracefully. When you know you do, you'll find new ease in the limelight.

Start with one warning glimpse of yourself in a mirror in a flat-footed, head-on stance, arms dangling. This is exactly the wrong way to stand, even with a straight back and well-poised head. Unlock those knees, flex them slightly and let them almost touch, in position so that one foot points straight ahead, and the other, just behind it, is at an easy angle. Watch as you turn of the appearance they make than of the way they sound before an audience. Fear of looking awkward brings self-consciousness, rather than worry about what to say. Club officers tell me that very capable members turn down responsibilities they'd take on otherwise because they feel that they can't make reports or discuss plans from the platform.

Then, take paper, to represent notes, in one hand. Hold the other arm away from your body with the elbow bent a little, and the hand, fingers curling, just behind and touching your hip. Practice consulting the notes without too much head dipping. Next, try poses without notes — drop the arms, one in front and one in back of your hips in the same manner, never flattening the upper arms, but relaxing the fingers. Then hold one relaxed hand lightly with the other, first in front, then behind you just below, not above, the waist.

Stand quietly, but move when it seems natural from one of these poses to another. And if you practice enough before a mirror and in everyday circumstances, you'll be comfortable enough to make a gentle and becoming gesture or two to emphasize your words.

Make sure, too, that your voice is everything that you hope it is. For breath control and voice improvement, send in a stamp, and return envelope to this column, c/o this paper and ask for "Your Most Attractive Voice."

The bidding:
South West North East
1 heart Pass 2 hearts 3 diamonds
2 hearts Pass Pass Pass

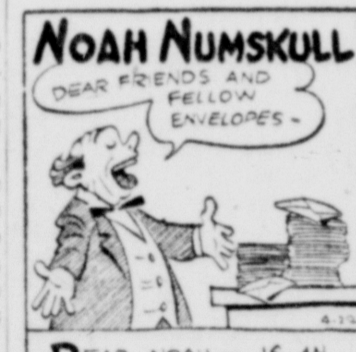

Opening lead: Queen of diamonds.

West muffed an opportunity to set declarer under when he mis-handled an interesting defensive situation involving the technique for obtaining ruffs.

The bidding was competitive and South's free bid of three hearts was made in an effort to reach game if his partner had a maximum raise. However, North had only eight points and was forced to decline the invitation.

West opened his singleton queen of diamonds. Dummy covered with the king. East won with the ace and returned the ten. Since East hoped that partner would ruff the return, he attempted in some manner to get across the information that he had a quick entry in spades so that he could give partner another ruff. The return of his highest remaining diamond, the ten, suggests that his entry is in the higher ranking suit, spades. Had East's ace been in clubs, his proper return would have been the five of diamonds, his lowest card in that suit.

West ruffed the return lead, and, in compliance with partner's request, returned a spade. East won with the ace and returned

Court Bailiff Sworn In Here

John Brenneman, 124 Wilmont Avenue, was sworn in yesterday as bailiff in Allegany County Circuit Court.

Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden administered the oath of office. Brenneman is a retired Amelle Plant worker and had been an employee of the Celanese Corporation of America for 32 years until two years ago.

Brenneman replaces Peter Berry, city, who died last week. Sidney H. Storer Sr. will remain as jury bailiff.

One of the few places in America where dates are grown commercially is in Phoenix, capital of Arizona's Valley of the Sun resort region.

Stock Market Advances To New High For Year

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stock Market moved ahead moderately on a broad front Monday, reaching a new high for 1958.

Trading was brisk, with 2,550,000 shares changing hands compared with 2,700,000 Friday. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 80 cents to $165.80 to exceed the previous high of $165.00 first reached Feb. 4 and equaled Friday.

The Dow Jones industrial average rose 1.41 to 450.72, still below the '58 peak of 458.65. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose .22 to 42.93 to a new summit for the year.

The market's rise capped a two-week recovery from a point near the year's lows and was made in the face of continued poor first quarter earnings reports by big corporations.

Rails, continuing to benefit from expectations of help from the federal government, made the biggest gain on average. The rail component in the AP stock average advanced $1.50 to a new high for the year. The industrials rose $1.00 and the utilities were unchanged.

All 15 most active stocks showed plus signs.

Of 1,191 issues traded, 618 rose and 294 fell. The number of new highs for the year expanded to 156 while new lows totaled 9.

Jury Acquits Hub City Man In Assault Case

Kneisley Freed
In Second Trial

William C. Kneisley Jr., 23, of Hagerstown, was found not guilty of assault with intent to rape a married woman last August 7 during a trial held yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The all-male jury deliberated about 45 minutes before reaching a verdict. Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris heard the case which was removed from Washington County.

Back in February a jury in the local court was unable to reach an agreement in the Kneisley case.

The accused man took the stand in his own defense yesterday afternoon and told the court that he never knew the woman nor was he ever in her house.

Admitted Drinking

He admitted that he had been drinking the night before the alleged assault and that he had gotten to his home about 1:50 a. m. on August 7.

The woman yesterday morning testified that she was awakened by a noise about 2:30 or 3 a. m. and saw a man standing in the bedroom doorway with a lighted match.

Her eight-year-old daughter and six-year-old son were asleep in the second bedroom. The woman said she asked the man how he got into the apartment and he said through the door. After telling the man to get out of her house, she said he jumped onto the bed and tore off her clothes and attempted to assault her.

The woman said she cried out and Kneisley choked her. The noise awakened the woman's daughter who came to the bedroom and switched on the light.

At this point, the woman testified, the man was startled by the light and she was able to break free. She said she ran from the bedroom. Meanwhile a neighbor who heard the commotion came into the house and turned on the light.

Kneisley was still in the apartment, she said and a few minutes later ran past them and fled. Kneisley's father took the stand yesterday and testified his son had come home about 2 a. m. on August 7.

Saw Him Come Home

Mrs. Grace A. Gordon, a next-door neighbor of the Kneisley's testified that she saw the accused man coming through the back yard of his home about 1:45 a. m. that day.

Kneisley explained to the court that he had been taken into custody by Hagerstown police who testified in the case.

When the verdict of the jury was given in the court room a number of spectators gave a round of applause and order had to be restored.

In his opening statement to the

Frostburg Man Gets 30 Days In County Jail

A 22-year-old Frostburg man yesterday was sentenced to 30 days in Allegany County Jail for contributing to the delinquency of a 16-year-old Eckhart girl.

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson imposed the sentence on John William Rae, 237 Center Street, following a hearing in Juvenile Court yesterday.

Rae was arrested by State Police Sgt. William F. Baker, who said last Friday the man assaulted the girl as she was walking home through a woodland short cut from school.

The man ran up behind the girl, grabbed her and carried her into the underbrush, Sgt. Baker stated, wanted her to take a drink with him and generally made improper suggestions to her.

The girl argued and fought the man, Sgt. Baker said, and finally began screaming. Rae then slapped her and ran. She was unharmed except for some bruises and scratches from the underbrush, he added.

In another Juvenile Court case yesterday Magistrate Anderson continued the probation period for a 14-year-old boy who was charged with violation of his parole. The lad has been guilty of truancy, Magistrate Anderson said, and recently ran away from his foster home.

Magistrate Anderson placed the boy in the custody of his father and told the boy to be of general good behavior.

Canadian Diplomat Speaks Here

Will Address
Kiwanis Club

William H. Cullen, administrative officer of the Canadian Embassy in Washington, will help the Cumberland Kiwanis Club observe United States-Canada Good Will Week.

Mr. Cullen, who has 31 years of service in the Canadian Department of External Affairs, will be the principal speaker at the meeting of the Cumberland Kiwanis Club at 12:15 p. m. Thursday at Central YMCA.

Virtually all of the 4,500 communities in the United States and Canada with Kiwanis clubs are participating in the observance of the week of April 27 at the 37th annual U. S. - Canada Good Will Week.

The observance marks the 141st anniversary of the Rush-Bagot Treaty which was concluded by an exchange of notes at Washington on April 28-29, 1817. This document virtually demilitarized the boundary between the U. S. and Canada by calling for a limitation of Naval vessels on the waterways between the countries and instructing those which were deemed necessary to interfere in no way with the peaceful passage of merchantmen of either country.

This agreement can be terminated by a simple six months notice on the part of either signer. It is this document which has made possible the unfortified character of the 3,000-mile U. S. - Canadian border. There are 30 Kiwanis-sponsored "peace markers" spotted along the border.

A native of Ottawa, the Canadian capital, Mr. Cullen has served in the Canadian delegation to the United Nations. He has been the administrative officer in Washington since 1952. He is married and the father of two daughters.

Domestic Workers Social Security Reports Are Due

Social Security reports on domestic workers for the first quarter 1958 are due on or before April 30, according to S. Leigh Wolfe, manager of the Cumberland Social Security office.

Mr. Wolfe stated that under present law most domestic employees, such as gardeners, cooks, maids and housekeepers are covered under Social Security. Employees of these and other household workers must report the cash wages paid and pay the Social Security tax of 4½ percent of the employee's wages. In cases where the domestic employee had earned less than $50 cash in the first quarter, the employer does not have to make any report.

The form used in making the return on household employees may be obtained at the office of the Director of Internal Revenue. Mr. Wolfe added that pamphlets which explain the coverage provisions for domestic employment are free at the Social Security office.

Allegany County's Dog Law Protects Canines As Well As General Public

This is the first in a series of stories about the much-discussed County Dog Law, the facts leading up to it, and the progress being made since its adoption.

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

On September 27, 1957, the County Commissioners of Allegany County adopted a resolution which has come to be known as "The County Dog Law."

This resolution in brief provides for the licensing of all dogs in the county, and for the appointment of two dog wardens to enforce the law, issue licenses and care for stray, and injured canines.

Actually, the County Commissioners have merely acted upon a state law (Chapter 723 of the Acts of the Maryland General Assembly of 1957) which empowered county commissioners to license dogs and to appoint dog wardens to enforce rules set up by the county board.

This law and the subsequent resolution came about because many private citizens were interested in the protection of animals and the protection of the

SRC Faces Sharp Drop In Revenue

Interstate Funds
Will Offset Loss

BALTIMORE (AP) — The State Roads Commission is going to have about $6,390,000 less State revenue to work with this year than it planned on a few months ago, Chairman Robert Bonnell said Monday.

But he added that the estimated $6,900,000 Maryland will get in federal aid under emergency provisions of the new highway bill will more than offset the loss.

Revenues Are Down

The slowed down rate of car buying during the current recession will lop off an estimated one million dollars in 1958 revenue the SRC anticipated, Bonnell said. The commission counted on 10½ million dollars from the titling tax but new and used car purchases are running behind earlier estimates.

In 1957 the State took in $10,302,000 from this source.

The gas tax was to bring in an estimated 54.1 million during 1958 but it is running about $600,000 behind that pace. Part of that reason, Bonnell explained, was due to two bad winter storms when many motorists left their cars idle for several days.

Storm costs put a $600,000 knock into the SRC budget in unexpected costs for ice and snow removal.

Pensions Come Out

The commission also is having to pay $700,000 in employees' pension costs out of its special funds instead of from the general fund as in the past. The Legislature made the change.

Commission funds are being used to foot the bill for $215,000 in capital funds, and the 40 hour week and 10 per cent pay increase for hourly paid employees is costing another $600,000 in the next fiscal year and $175,000 for the last quarter of the current one.

The SRC also is lacking some 2½ million dollars it counted on in federal money which the counties and cities are using instead by stepping up their program of primary, secondary and urban road building and improvement. That money would otherwise go into State road funds.

Suit Filed By SRC Here

The State Roads Commission has filed a condemnation suit in Allegany County Circuit Court seeking land for improvement work on Maryland State Route 36 from U. S. Route 40 to Corrikanville.

Defendants in the case are Chester W. Ayers and his wife, Helen D. Ayers, of 705 St. Mary's Avenue, fee owners and the Sun Oil Company, leasee.

The SRC has deposited two checks totaling $37,140 with the clerk of the court. A court order was signed by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris that summons be issued for the defendants commanding them to answer the petition of the SRC.

Two deeds involving local property were filed yesterday in the land records office of the court house. The property was sold to the State of Maryland for use by the SRC.

John C. Rodenhauer and his wife, Josephine Rodenhauer sold property located on the northwest side of Ann Street (now Central Avenue).

In the other transaction, land on the southwest corner of Virginia Avenue and Laing Avenue was deeded to the SRC by Elizabeth B. Landis and her husband, Eugene C. Landis, John A. Hammersmith, widow, William F. Hammersmith and his wife, Edith Hammersmith, Elizabeth E. Catherman and her husband Charles S. Catherman Jr.

Also Mary R. McNally, widow, of Staten Island, N. Y., all individually, Elizabeth B. Landis, John A. Hammersmith and Mary R. McNally, as trustees.

Endorsements Are Made By Brotherhood

Incumbent Delegates,
"Harmony" Backed

All incumbent candidates for the House of Delegates from Allegany County have been endorsed by the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engine-men.

D. L. Adams, Baltimore, chairman of the Brotherhood's State Legislative Board, announced the political endorsements here yesterday.

For the House of Delegates, the Brotherhood has endorsed Thomas N. Berry, Cumberland; Noel Speir Cook, Frostburg; Fred B. Driscoll, Cumberland; Lester B. Reed, Mt. Savage, and David J. Williams, Barton, all incumbents and all Republican. Estel C. Kelley, Cumberland, was endorsed to fill out the House of Delegates slate in the Republican primary election May 20.

Charles M. See was endorsed for reelection to the Maryland Senate.

The Brotherhood, Mr. Adams said, has nothing against Del. George R. Hughes Jr., who will oppose Senator See in the primary and has a good record, but feels it must continue support for Sen. See in recognition of his years of faithful service.

On the state level, the Brotherhood has endorsed members of the "Harmony Slate" which includes Mayor Thomas D'Alessandro Jr., for senator; J. Millard Taves, governor; Att. Gen. C. Ferdinand Sybert for reelection, and Louis L. Goldstein for Comptroller.

The Brotherhood, Mr. Adams said, will make no endorsement in the First and Sixth Congressional District primary contests.

Endorsed for other contests were Daniel B. Brewster, D-Ba. County, Second; Edward A. Garmatz, D-Ba., Third; George H. Fallon, D-Ba., Fourth; Richard E. Lankford, D-Ba., Fifth, and Samuel N. Friedel, D-Ba., Seventh District.

Fire Damages Local Garage

A fire which broke out in the ceiling of the Charles Gurley garage, 129 North Mechanic Street, was quickly brought under control after being spotted by an alert passerby.

Central Fire Company, assisted by West Side Fire Company, answered the 9:27 p. m. telephone alarm from the unknown passerby who spotted smoke coming from the flat roof of the building.

Firemen chopped their way through the ceiling which was ablaze when they arrived and extinguished the flames. They said the fire apparently started from a short circuit in a light in the ceiling.

Attendants at the garage, notified also by the person who discovered the fire, quickly emptied the garage of eight or 10 automobiles and two rigger trucks which were housed there. None of the vehicles were damaged.

Mr. Gurley, owner of the garage, said last night that several thousands of dollars worth of auto parts and equipment was stored in the upstairs part of the building. No estimate of the damage to the building or equipment could be made last night.

Traffic on North Mechanic Street was rerouted over the Market Street bridge by police while the fire companies worked.

Plan To Visit

Magistrate Fred H. Anderson and Probation Officer John H. Jeffries of Juvenile Court here will visit Maryland training schools near Baltimore where area minors are committed. They plan to make the visitations Friday and Saturday.

Secretaries Are Honored

Mayor Roy W. Eves presents the city's Secretaries Week proclamation to Mrs. Reba Whitehair, president of the National Secretaries Association, as Miss Ellen Newnam, chairman of Secretaries Week looks on. Wednesday has been proclaimed as Secretaries Day in Cumberland to recognize their contribution to commerce, industry and government.

Toxicologist Will Address Chemical Unit

Dr. Freimuth To Be Guest Speaker

Dr. Henry C. Freimuth, toxicologist in the office of the Chief Medical Examiner of Maryland, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Western Maryland Section of the American Chemical Society here tomorrow.

Mr. Freimuth will discuss "Chemistry and Sudden Death" at the meeting Wednesday at 8 p. m. in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The business session will be preceded by a dinner at 6:30 p. m. Dr. Freimuth was born and educated in New York City. He received his Bachelor of Science degree from the College of the City of New York in 1932, his master's degree from New York University in 1933, and his Ph. D. also from N.Y.U. in 1938.

He has had a varied and interesting career as both teacher and chemist. His teaching assignments include those at New York University, Loyola College of Maryland, the University of Maryland Medical School, and Harvard University Medical School.

He was a visiting lecturer in the Department of Legal Medicine at Harvard from 1944 until 1955, and is currently professional lecturer in chemistry at Loyola College and associate professor of Forensic Toxicology at the University of Maryland Medical School. The latter position has been held since July 1957; from 1949 to 1957 he was assistant professor of legal medicine at the same school. In addition to the foregoing, Dr. Freimuth has served, since the early forties, as an instructor at both the Baltimore City Police Academy and the Maryland State Police Training School.

Aside from his teaching experience, Dr. Freimuth was a special agent analytical chemist for the FBI from 1939 until 1944; and since the latter date, he has held the position of toxicologist, Office of the Chief Medical Examiner, State of Maryland.

Dr. Freimuth holds membership in a number of leading scientific societies, and he has had 33 publications in various journals.

Non-members of the society are cordially invited to attend.

Dr. Novak To Lead Discussion Group

Dr. Robert T. Novak, a member of the faculty of Frostburg State Teachers College, will be the leader at a meeting of the Economics Discussion Group of the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night.

"Spending and Taxes" will be the subject for the session in the conference room of the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant.

Postmaster To Receive Citation

A citation will be presented to Thomas F. Conlon, postmaster, in behalf of his efforts and those of his assistants in employing handicapped veterans at the local Post Office.

The presentation will be made tonight during the regular meeting of Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, according to Harold Davis, post commander. It will be made by Grafton Lee Brown, Baltimore, director of Federal Employment, US Dept. of Labor, and Richard Manning, also of Baltimore, state service officer for the Maryland Veterans Commission.

Commander Davis said that the local post office at present employs 12 disabled veterans.

Several resolutions of interest to all legionnaires are to come before the 8 p. m. meeting in the post home, and refreshments will be served following the business session and presentation. Charles Griffith has charge of entertainment.

Shafer Pigeon Wins Flight

"Green Light" from the Lost Loft of Dudley Shafer won the first old bird race of the 1958 series of the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club, negotiating the 100 miles from West Union, W. Va., to Cumberland in an average speed of 1,413.20 yards per minute.

Ten lofts with 178 birds competed under favorable conditions with good returns and excellent speed.

Other pigeons in the top 10 were "Twenty One," also from Lost Loft, 1,411 yards per minute; "741" from the Gilmore Loft of A. A. The next race also will be a 100-mile event from West Union. Mr. and Mrs. Dale McIntyre, RD 8, Charleston, S. C., announce the birth of a daughter, the former Miss Shelby Miller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Miller, Mt. Savage Road. The father is a grandson of Mr. and Mrs. James Bothwell, 357 Bedford Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jacobs, 627 Quebec Avenue, a daughter yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nelson, 19 Mary Street, a son yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis P. Sites, 1023 Braddock Road, a son yesterday morning.

Multi-Colored Fire Alarm Running Chart Is Prepared

ready for action when the first running chart recently completed of four rounds sounds. There is an interval of about 10 seconds between rounds, which are heard at all four stations.

The box number and recording tape of the stations are checked and re-checked by firemen before they report to the scene.

In the event East Side answers a box, the other three companies stand by for 10 minutes in case assistance is needed. They do not return to their routine duties until the company taps in or notifies the other companies by radio.

Chief Parker asks persons pulling a box to remain near it to direct the firemen to the blaze when they arrive on the scene. When boxes at the local hospitals, the three county institutions, or schools are pulled, two pumpers and the 35-foot-aerial ladder reports to the scene.

However when school is not in session such as in the summer time or vacations, the aerial doesn't report. There are some 97 alarm boxes in the city alarm system.

Hartman To Be Business Agent Of Clerks Union

William R. Hartman, Ellerslie, has accepted a full-time position as president and business agent of Local 886, Retail Clerks International Association, AFL-CIO here.

Mr. Hartman has been a member of Cumberland Local 886 for 11½ years and has served as president of the local since 1950.

He has been employed at the A&P Super Market on Winewood Street for over 11 years and has been a member of the Retail Clerks union here since 1937, with the exception of a short period during World War II.

He joined Retail Clerks Local 839-A in Washington, D. C., where he was employed as assistant manager of a Safeway market.

Mr. Hartman has obtained a leave of absence from the A&P Tea Company, where he will return to work if and when his position with the union terminates.

Norman L. Tyrie is secretary-treasurer and business agent of the local, also on a full-time status. He came here from Columbus, Ohio, where he was an organizer for the Retail Clerks District Council.

Local 886 holds contracts with some 20 food and clothing stores in Cumberland and the nearby West Virginia area.

The union said negotiations are now under way with Acme Markets, Schwarzenbach and Son and Albert's Super Market.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jacobs, 627 Quebec Avenue, a daughter yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Nelson, 19 Mary Street, a son yesterday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis P. Sites, 1023 Braddock Road, a son yesterday morning.

LaVale Firemen To Host County Convention

Plan Festival
Early In June

LaVale Volunteer Fire Company, which is observing its 25th anniversary this year, will be host to the 46th annual Allegany-Garrett Firemen's Association convention on June 4.

The convention will be held in conjunction with the annual festival of the LaVale Firemen, scheduled for the week of June 2-7, inclusive.

This is the first time the LaVale Company has been host to a county convention, except during the war years when conventions were limited to short meetings, with no entertainment or festivity.

Cromwell C. Zembower is general chairman for the convocation and is being assisted by a committee including James Loar, Edward Young and A. G. Youngblood, representing the firemen, and Mrs. Gladys Burkey, Mrs. Elva Schell and Mrs. Leona McClellan from the firemen's auxiliary.

The week of festivity will include entertainment, carnival rides and attractions and a mammoth street parade the night of the convention. Mr. Zembower said that the firemen and auxiliary expect to entertain 200 official delegates in addition to several thousand area firemen, auxiliary members and interested people.

The LaVale Company has been a member of the association for the past 24 years. The company was organized and chartered February 28, 1933, but did not affiliate with the association until the following year.

Larceny Count To Be Faced By Area Man

Equipment Taken
From Local Store

A 24-year-old Frostburg man who police say is involved in the theft of more than $1,000 in pistols, rifles and fishing equipment from a downtown department store will be charged with grand larceny, James S. Getty, state's attorney, said last night.

Richard Harris McClintock, 12 Grant Street, was arrested Friday night and is being held in City Jail pending a preliminary hearing.

County Investigator Edwin R. Lilya said yesterday that McClintock admitted the thefts under questioning, saying he did not remember just how much equipment was involved.

Mr. Lilya said McClintock, an employee of the sporting goods department of Sears Roebuck Company, had systematically been taking the merchandise from the store, placing it outside the building and then removing it from the premises. He then sold the merchandise to various persons at greatly reduced prices, the investigator said.

The thefts covered a period of a little more than a month, McClintock told authorities. Actual value of the items stolen will not be known until a store inventory is made.

The case was developed over the weekend by Detective Kenneth Morrissey, Detective Thomas See and Officer Wilbur E. Shank of the City Police Department.

Police Chief R. Emmett Flynn yesterday praised the excellent work of Det. Morrissey and Officer Shank in the case.

Friday night the local detective and officer made dozens of check stops in Frostburg, Eckhart, Cresaptown and along U. S. Route 40 in an effort to locate McClintock.

Saturday and Sunday the local authorities contacted more than a dozen persons to obtain some of the stolen loot.

Already recovered is a .22 calibre pistol, .22 Winchester pump rifle, three Zebo 33 fishing reels, .32 Winchester rifle, a J. C. Higgins casting reel, a Higgins fly rod, a spinning rod, another casting rod, a .22 automatic pistol, a .12 gauge Winchester pump rifle, a Remington Wingmaster pump rifle, a .22 calibre pistol, a canvas fishing reel and two 8 mm. motion picture cameras.

Police said that most people have cooperated thus far, but warned that in the event people fail to return the goods warrants will be issued charging them with receiving stolen goods.

EASTER SEAL LUCKY BUCKS NEEDED NOW

Another 79 Lucky Bucks were received yesterday at headquarters of the Easter Seal drive in the Allegany County League for Crippled Children.
